Market Called Upon to Absorb a Large Amount of Selling — Drops of $5 to $20.

FINAL QUOTATIONS
NEAR DAY'S LOW

Exchange Orders Three-Hour Sessions for Three Days This Week and Will Be Closed Saturday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The New York stock market today was off, but rallied after a heavy opening, and then reacted to a normal day.

The market called upon to absorb a large amount of selling, which carried down scores of leading issues from $5 to nearly $20 a share, with quotations generally around low levels of the day.

Total sales were 6,202,930 shares.

The ticker tape fell about a half hour behind trading during the morning, but kept close to transactions on the floor during the latter part of the session. A burst of activity in the last few minutes, however, delayed the printing of the final quotations for several minutes after the close.

Some Closing Prices.

While nearly all of the recorded leaders, and a majority of the 500 stocks traded in today showed substantial declines, probably 200 or more issues closed with gains ranging from fractions of 1 point.

Final quotations and net changes of some of the leaders were: U. S. Steel 152 3/4, off 3/4; American Can 107 1/4, off 1/4; American Telephone 107 1/4, off 1/4; Chrysler 37, off 1/4; Consolidated Gas 102 1/4, off 1/4; General Electric 235, off 1/4; International Telephone 84 1/4, off 1/4; Kodak 103, off 1/4; Pennsylvania Railroad 90 1/4, off 1/4; Sears Roebuck 10 1/4, off 1/4; Westinghouse Electric 146, off 1/4; General Motors 45 1/4, off 1/4; American & Foreign Power 10 1/4, off 1/4.

Wheat Down Sharply.

Commodity markets also sagged, wheat last about 4 cents a bushel, reflecting an increased visible supply and a bearish Argentine crop report. Corn sagged about one cent.

Foreign exchanges were dull and steady. Sterling cables sagged to $4.87 1/2. The Japanese yen, however, moved 1/4 of a cent up to a new high for the year at 145 cents.

HOOVER RETURNS FROM CAMP.
DRIVES 60 MILES IN RAIN

His Visit in Virginia With Old Friends Is Cut Short by Storm.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—His visit to his mountain camp shortened by a rainstorm, President Hoover returned to the White House late yesterday after a 60-mile automobile drive through a pelting rain. He made the journey by way of Fredericksburg to avoid a slippery detour.

Although the rain held the presidential party indoors most of the day, it afforded an opportunity for an informal gathering of old friends before a wood fire in the living room of the mountain cottage.

Most of Mr. Hoover's guests were friends who had enjoyed the informal hospitality of his S street home before he became Chief Executive.

The visit was the first Mr. Hoover has made to his mountain camp since his conferences there with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain several weeks ago.

Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries, visited the site of the proposed mountain school at the request of the President. Richey reported the foundations already had been laid for the structure.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced the appointment of a committee of financiers, economists and business men "to inquire into banking, finance and credit, and pay regard to the factors, both internal and international, which govern their operation and to make recommendations calculated to enable those agencies to promote the development of trade and commerce and the employment of labor."

STATE MOVES FOR EARLY RE-TRIAL

Merchant Accused of Murder of Pearl Potoskey Continues at Liberty Under $25,000 Bond.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HILLSBORO, Mo., Nov. 3.—A mistrial was declared today in the case of Sol Hohenthal, retired merchant of De Soto, charged with the murder of Pearl Potoskey, St. Louis beauty shop owner. The jury was discharged 37 hours after deliberations began.

The jury, composed of nine farmers, two carpenters and a small-town storekeeper, took 25 ballots, standing nine to three for conviction on each ballot except the first, in which four men voted for acquittal.

Before Circuit Judge Dearing opened court this morning, lawyers had anticipated a deadlock and Prosecuting Attorney Green announced he would take immediate steps to bring about an early retrial. Hohenthal's $25,000 bond will remain in effect.

The case went to the jury Saturday night after the trial had taken up all of the court's time during the week. The jury deliberated until after midnight and resumed early yesterday, continuing through the day. They sent only one message to the judge, at 11:30 p. m. Saturday, when they asked permission to deliberate for another hour before retiring.

The courtroom was packed when Judge Dearing called the jury in a few minutes after 10 a. m. today. The foreman, Ed Harnes, a farmer of Cedar Hill, told the court that no verdict had been reached and that the jury had decided they could not agree on a verdict.

The trial has cost the State much money and time, but no man should surrender his honest opinion in order to get a verdict, Judge Dearing said, in discharging the jury.

Those Voting for Acquittal.

The three jurors who held out for acquittal, it was learned, were Foreman Harnes, whose father was a character witness for Hohenthal; Eli Williams, farmer, of Morse Mills; and H. A. Kummer, a carpenter, of Cedar Hill.

From a member of the jury it was learned that Harnes and Williams were emphatically for acquittal from the beginning of discussion, while Kummer occasionally seemed to be reaching the point of changing his opinion.

The jurors who held for conviction, it was said, were influenced more by the evidence of rents in the coat which Miss Potoskey wore when her body was found in Hohenthal's bachelor apartment at De Soto, Dec. 2, last, than by any other bit of evidence. They believed, in spite of the State's contention to the contrary, that she was killed with the pistol found beside her although they thought that some of the skull fractures were inflicted with another instrument.

The jurors who voted for conviction were: Herman Siemer, farmer, Hillsboro; L. E. Henry, farmer, Hillsboro; William Dickerman, merchant, Goldmans; Stockley Mullins, farmer, Hillsboro; A. Roy, farmer, Hillsboro; Walter Hoffarth, carpenter, Antonio; John Kneff, farmer, Antonio; L. W. Kummer, farmer, Hillsboro; and Theodore Donnemann, farmer, Antonio.

Defendant Appears Dazed.

Emotional scenes came when the jury's report was made and stood speechless for several minutes as friends extended their hands in congratulation. He stared at reporters, not hearing their questions, and finally said, "I'm sorry the jury didn't reach a verdict; I felt I had been proved innocent."

Hohenthal, who has been spending his nights at De Soto, appeared in Hillsboro early yesterday with Chicago relatives and spent the day in the town. He talked with acquaintances on the street and lingered about the courtroom, avoiding any mention of the trial during conversations. Judge Dearing also remained at call, but sent the jury to bed early last night.

RATTLE SNAKE IN NEW YORK
SUBWAY FRIGHTENS CROWDS

Serpent, Killed by Policeman Summoned by Station Agent, Was 8 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A rattlesnake found its way last night to a downtown subway platform where it terrified dozens of persons before being killed by a policeman.

Patrolman John I. Kennedy, at his post at the Civic and Centre streets, was approached by a frightened ticket agent, who told him of the snake. He ran down the subway stairs, passing on the way a Negro porter fleeing from the rattler at double time speed.

While persons waiting for trains huddled at one end of the platform, the policeman attacked the snake at the other, clubbing it with his night stick and crushing it with an iron refuse can. He reported later that it had eight rattlers. No one was able to explain how it got into the subway.

REPORTERS START JAIL TERMS FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

Three Washington Men Who Refused to Answer Grand Jury Questions Drop Appeal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Three reporters, released on bail last week after being sentenced to 45 days each for contempt of court, today voluntarily re-entered jail to begin serving their sentences.

The men, Gorman M. Hendricks, Linton Burket and John E. Nevin, Jr., all of the Washington Times, decided to go back to jail after their attorneys had informed them it was almost a certainty that their sentences would be confirmed by the Court of Appeals. They then requested Justice Sutherland of the District of Columbia Superior Court to dismiss their habeas corpus proceedings and remand them to jail.

The three were sentenced after they had refused to give the grand jury the names and addresses of persons from whom they claimed to have purchased liquor, for the purpose of gathering material for a crime survey in Washington.

SUPREME COURT TO RULE ON
SEIZURE OF EMPTY BOTTLES

Right of Dry Agents to Confiscate Barrels, Corks, etc. Challenged After Pittsburg Raid.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Supreme Court consented today to pass on the authority of prohibition enforcement agents to seize empty barrels, bottles, corks and other articles which had been used by the illegal liquor trade.

The seizure had been made in an order to cover materials out of which liquor may be manufactured and utensils for its manufacture, such as stills. The lower courts, however, sustained the prohibition agents who had raided Danovitz's place, holding the Government had the right to confiscate 57 truck loads of empty barrels, bottles and other articles.

SENATE, 54 TO 22, CENSURES BINGHAM
FOR HIS USE OF TARIFF "ADVISER"

Valentine Bechtold, President of Victor Creamery Co., Victim of Holdup by Two Armed Men.

Valentine Bechtold, president of the Victor Creamery Co., was robbed of $2514 today by two armed men who escaped in a sedan with two companions after they had forced him to drive his automobile into an alley north of Penrose avenue, between College and Warne avenues.

Following his custom, Bechtold had collected week-end receipts from stores at 2813 Cherokee street, 1103 Salisbury street and 3905 West Florissant avenue, and was proceeding to a fourth store at 1237 St. Louis avenue.

Driving south in College avenue at 11:30 a. m., he was crowded to the curb by the sedan at Carter avenue. Two occupants of the sedan seated themselves beside him, one placing the muzzle of a revolver against his side, and ordered him to turn into Penrose street and then to drive 200 feet into the alley, warning him not to "get excited."

The robbers then demanded that Bechtold turn over his money, part of which was in a brief case upon which they were sitting. A small amount was taken from Bechtold's pockets. Checks totaling $1515 also were taken.

The sedan, described as a green Essex, drew up and after stopping for the robbers continued through the alley and disappeared.

PARTY OF EIGHT MISSING

Radio Reports Col. 'Alpine and Prospector Safe on Victoria Island in Arctic Sea.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 4.—The Department of Marine and Fisheries received a bulletin by radio today from its Churchill station saying that Col. MacAlpine and his party of seven prospectors, missing in the North Country for several weeks, had been found at Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island, in the Arctic Sea.

The message from Churchill Station said: "MacAlpine and party found. All well. Located Cambridge Bay."

Col. MacAlpine, head of the Dominion explorers, had been in the North Country with his seven companions on an aerial exploration trip for more than two months.

The reported location of the party indicated to those familiar with the country that they had been forced off their course and then forced down when their fuel ran out. Victoria Island is many miles off the mainland of Northern Canada.

SUPREME COURT OPENS LATE

Lack of Quorum Causes It to Break Record of Punctuality.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Ordinarily the United States Supreme Court observes the hour set for its meeting and adjournment with the scrupulous care of a well regulated clock but today it was delayed 15 minutes in beginning deliberations, because of difficulty in obtaining a quorum.

One of the justices was reported slightly indisposed, and remained at home. Two members were out of the city. The court needed six members to open its session. Five arrived before noon, and were robed at that hour, but Justice Stone had been detained and was 15 minutes late in joining his colleagues. The court after a short session adjourned until Nov. 25.

The three week's recess will be utilized in writing opinions in cases which have been argued at this term.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 4.—The charge that three students were working their way through the University of Michigan by selling liquor to other students, was made by police today after a raid on a men's dormitory.

A case of wine and a case of whiskey were confiscated in a men's dormitory.

Harold McKee, 24 years old, Pittsburg, Pa., is held in the county jail and two others, whose names were withheld, are being sought.

The liquor police person was brought from Canada and smuggled into the dormitory under buttoned overcoats. Sgt. Louis Foley and Detective Clifford West declared a number of telephone calls ordering liquor were received while they were raiding the room. The officers answered the calls.

The raid was part of a drive begun by local officers after five fraternities had been placed on probation by the university for tolerating intoxication at dances.

SOFTENED TO SAY
SENATOR HAD NO
CORRUPT MOTIVES

Action, First of Its Sort in 27 Years, Comes After Member From Connecticut Makes Long Defense.

SMOOTH TRIES TO GET NAME OMITTED

Norris Replies to Gillett's Criticism of Selection of Men Who Investigated Eyanon Employment.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—By a vote of 54 to 22, the Senate this afternoon, at the end of a four-hour debate, adopted the Norris resolution condemning the action of Senator Hiram Bingham, high tariff Republican Senator of Connecticut, in placing an officer of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association on the payroll of the Senate and using him as an adviser in secret meetings of the Senate Finance Committee.

The resolution was formally branded as "contrary to good morals and Senatorial ethics and tending to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

The text of the resolution, the first of the kind adopted by the Senate against a member since 1902, when Tillman and McLaughlin were censured for fighting on the floor, follows:

That the action of the Senator from Connecticut, Mr. Bingham, in placing Mr. Charles L. Eyanon upon the official rolls of the Senate and his use by Senator Bingham at the time and in the manner set forth in the report of the subcommittee of the Committee on the Judiciary, while not a result of corrupt motives on the part of the Senator from Connecticut, is contrary to good morals and Senatorial ethics and tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned.

Sympathy for Bingham.

In the closing stage of the solemn debate, a wave of sympathy for Bingham engulfed a large section of the Senate, with the result that the softening clause, setting out explicitly that his action was not the result of any corrupt motive, was offered as an amendment to the original act and met with general approval.

Glenn (Rep.) Illinois, sponsored the amendment, and Bratton (Dem.) New Mexico, while approving its purpose, withheld it down to read that there was no corrupt motive "On the part of the Senator from Connecticut."

Senator Bingham, who had remained silent after his opening defense, rose during this phase of the discussion to say that he hoped the amendment would not be adopted if it implied that the conduct of Charles L. Eyanon was in any way corrupt.

Eyanon was the manufacturer's official whose employment by Bingham as his secretary brought about today's action.

The Connecticut Senator asserted warmly that he wanted no distinction drawn in his favor between his own conduct and that of Eyanon.

Bratton insisted upon the change he had proposed, saying that he knew Bingham personally, but did not know Eyanon. He pointed out that the resolution expressed no opinion one way or the other about Eyanon.

Norris accepted the Glenn-Bratton amendment, and it became a part of the resolution of censure as finally adopted.

Opposed by 22 Republicans. The resolution was Republican. With the exception of Wain (Dem.), Massachusetts, Bingham, New England colleges stood by him to a man.

Patterson (Rep.), Missouri, was not present. Harvey (Dem.), Missouri, was present but not voting. He said that if permitted to vote he would have cast his ballot for censure.

Prior to the final vote, the Senate defeated two efforts by regular Lieut. Northcutt, Who Disappeared From Norfolk Navy Yard, Taken in Custody in Seattle.

HIS EXPLANATION OF ACTION SOUGHT

Devoted to Family, Says Relative, Who Tells of Woman's Reputed Attempt to Win Affections.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Naval authorities have requested the commandant of the Puget Sound Navy Yard to obtain Lieut. Harold W. Northcutt's explanation of his disappearance from Norfolk a week ago, and Northcutt's statement may decide whether he will face a court martial.

The officer, a Missourian, who dropped out of sight Oct. 22 with $250 he had collected for the University of Virginia, is held at Bremerton, Wash., Navy Yard after a long search during which it was thought he might have been kidnapped, killed or injured.

Bureau of Navigation officers said they assumed Northcutt was held for being absent without leave.

It was also said that the Puget Sound Navy Yard commandant, who is in Seattle, would probably question Northcutt about his disposition of the $250 which he was reported to have collected from extension course students for the University of Virginia.

Northcutt was thought to have gone to deliver this money to university authorities at the time of his disappearance.

Naval officers asserted they had not received the Department of Justice report on the case.

Agents of the Department of Justice were in and found him in Vancouver, B. C., he voluntarily went to Seattle where yesterday he was formally placed under arrest and turned over to the Navy at the Bremerton yard.

His father-in-law, H. E. C. Bryant, a Washington newspaper man, expressed surprise, saying Northcutt had been advised that a Canadian woman, whose name was disclosed, left her home in Ottawa last August for the purpose of winning the affections of Lieut. Northcutt.

Letters in the possession of the Justice Department show, he said, that "for more than a year she boldly asserted" her aims.

"Nothing ever surprised me and my family more," he said, "I know of no reason for such a step. Lieut. Northcutt did not drink, was devoted to his wife and little boy, and did not owe any debt that he could not have paid."

Kramer robbed Walter Rieckewitz, 2316 North Ninth street, of $26, and Miss Eleanor de Sott, 2457 Russell boulevard, of a $200 diamond ring in Tower Grove Park on the night of Aug. 25. Four days later, Kramer robbed John Zupic, 5614 Millers avenue, and a woman companion of $10 in Forest Park. Two other robbery charges against Kramer were dismissed.

Senate Censures Bingham for Hiring "Adviser"

Republicans to votes the inevitable condemnation.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the Finance Committee, offered a substitute resolution which would condemn Bingham in general terms and without naming him, expressed the "disapproval" of the Senate.

Smoot characterized the Smoot substitute as an attempted "milk and water whitewash" of the Senator from Connecticut and declared that its adoption would be tantamount to a public apology by the Senate for Bingham's conduct. The Senate, he concluded, must take the action contemplated by the original resolution "we stand on the condemnation in the eyes of the people."

After the Smoot substitute had failed by 44 to 22, Edges of New Jersey, a colleague of Bingham in the Senate, proposed that the Finance Committee propose that "condemnation" be changed to "disapproval," that the reference to "good morals" and "dishonesty" be stricken out, and that a section be added disclaiming any intention to brand Bingham's conduct as dishonorable. Edges's resolution was defeated, 48 to 24.

Closing the debate, Senator Norris said he was "disturbed" by the fact that the Senator from Connecticut "has never understood and does not understand what the Senate is doing."

"The Senator," said the Nebraskaan, "seems never to have grasped that what he did was injurious to the honor and dignity of the Senate. One might almost say that he goes on the same theory that animates Grundy—the theory that 'we have got control of the Government through the election and we are entitled to do what we please with it. He hasn't yet reached the point where he understands that the country condemns what he did."

"The Senator, moreover, acted in the great Finance Committee on the narrow ground that all he had to do was to get all he could for the State of Connecticut."

Glenn Floods for Easterners.

Glenn, in an effective speech, pointed out that all who had spoken had taken pains to record their conviction that Bingham was actuated by no corrupt motive. He said that if the Senate let the resolution stand as drawn, some persons, and some of them the future, might draw the inference that the Senate had stigmatized Bingham as dishonest and corrupt.

"It is common fairness to this man who has led a career of honor to his country, who has been for the last few days under a strain that might break any man's back, to say to the country that we do not believe him corrupt."

On the Democratic side, McKim of Tennessee urged Norris to accept Glenn's suggestion. Norris replied that the resolution did not charge corruption; that the amendment would have the effect of stating something negative which was not alleged affirmatively. He said, however, that, since the amendment did not change the purport of the resolution, he would accept it.

Save Bingham himself, not a member of either side undertook a defense of his conduct in the Eyanon incident. Those who spoke against the resolution relied on the argument that his conduct, while reprehensible, was not of a character to justify the formal condemnation on his record.

Reed Helps Sway Senate.

From Reed of Pennsylvania came the best and most moving expression of this point of view. His speech helped materially to sway the Senate toward the clause that was later written into the resolution. He asked the Senate to consider how solemn a thing it was to denounce a Senator. "If it should be done to me," he said, "I should feel the rest of my life under a cloud. I hesitate, not because he is my friend—though he is my friend—to put this stigma on a colleague whom we all know to be honorable and honest."

He told of the distinguished service of Bingham in the World War, and added: "I'll condemn the practice set out in the resolution, but not the man. The circumstances of the case don't warrant it."

Gold to Bingham's Defense.

Next to Bingham's own statement the speech that came nearest to a defense was by Senator Gould (Rep.), Maine.

"One of the silent men of the Senate," Gould had a hard time getting his tongue to perform its accustomed task.

"Senator Bingham," he said, "has made a fair, square statement of what he did and why he did it."

The galleries laughed. Senator Moses, in the chair, pounded vigorously with his gavel and threatened to have the audience put out.

Gould was asked whether he approved what Bingham had done. "I approve of what he said in explanation," he replied, "and that was the most that could be got out of him."

The long debate opened with the reading of a prepared statement by Bingham.

Senator Bingham voted "present."

The subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee referred to in the resolution is the lobby committee which inquired into the case. Both Bingham and Eyanon appeared before the committee and gave details of the employment.

Bingham, when asked immediately after the vote, if he proposed to resign, replied "certainly not."

Bingham reiterated his protest because the Senate had not excused Eyanon or corrupt motives. The vote was 44 to 22 against the substitute, which was offered by Senator Smoot.

The text of the Smoot substitute read:

"Resolved, That the Senate disapprove the employment, as a clerk, of Bingham or committee of the Senate, of any person who at any time during his service, as such clerk, has been or is employed by any individual, partnership, corporation or association engaged in the manufacture, production or importation of articles affected by tariff legislation, or by any association or group of such manufacturers, producers or importers."

The chamber was crowded and the galleries were filled as the resolution was called up. Norris, who as chairman of the Judiciary Committee investigated Bingham's relations with the Association, expressed regret that while he had to offer the resolution he felt it was his duty.

Senator Gillett (Rep.), Mass., was the first to come to defense of Bingham. He conceded that the Connecticut Senator had been indiscreet, but added that "if we should pass upon all the indiscretions of our fellow Senators, our time for the transaction of business would be very limited."

Criticizing the appointments to the Lobby Investigating Committee made by Norris, Gillett asserted the Nebraska Senator designated the "only two members of the committee who belonged to the coalition" of Democrats and Republicans.

"I don't think that what we'd expect from the chairman of the committee that's supposed to be impartial and judicial," he added, "is that we should pass upon the indiscretions of our fellow Senators, our time for the transaction of business would be very limited."

"Does the Senator believe that?" asked Norris.

"No," Gillett replied, "I don't mean that I approve of what Senator Bingham did, but the criticism was justified. I wouldn't introduce a resolution of that kind because I believe it would not be worthy of Senate action."

Norris replied that Gillett would "admit the chairman had been amiss if he put fellows on that committee who were opposed to the investigation."

"I appointed a committee that wanted to carry out the investigation in good faith," the Nebraskaan said. "Their work demonstrates I did the right thing."

Made Mistake, Borah's View.

Borah (Rep.), Idaho, said he did not want to be interpreted as a conviction on his part that Bingham had intended anything corrupt, adding he believed that Bingham had made a mistake and believed Bingham in his own heart felt it was a mistake.

It was one of those mistakes, Borah added, if permitted to go with the connivance or approval of the Senate, would be disastrous.

"The Senator from Connecticut did not indicate he felt in his own heart it was a mistake," interrupted Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington.

"Well," replied Borah, "the Senator from Connecticut is under fire. I venture to say the Senator will never do it again and for that reason I think he does feel it was a mistake."

Answering assertions that the committee had been "regular," Borah said the implication was that if the committee had been "regular," it would have been "regular."

It would have "smothered or failed to bring out the facts."

"The committee was not untruthful," he asserted. "If it was, let anybody point out where its report was untrue. There is not a scintilla of untruth in that committee or its report."

He said Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, a member of the committee, was not controlled by any partisan feeling and that he had been a ruthless investigator whether examining Democrats or Republicans.

"That's precisely what we need," added Borah.

Chairman Canaway of the lobby committee said there "isn't a word in the committee's report that any honest man can read and say there is any partisanship in it."

Canaway referred to the appearance before the committee of A. J. Arnold, vice president of the Southern Tariff Association, and said the Senator's conduct was as reprehensible as that of any one would condone it."

Norris took the floor at the outset of today's session.

Before he could obtain action, Bingham read the following statement:

"The resolution asks for the condemnation of my having placed Mr. Eyanon, secretary of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association on the Senate rolls on three grounds: First, that it is contrary to good morals; second, that it is contrary to Senate ethics; and third, that it tends to damage the honor and reputation of the Senate. In view of the fact, Mr. President, that I have previously explained at some length the whole transaction, both on the floor of the Senate and once before the special committee charged with investigating lobbyists, I shall not go into the matter in detail at this time."

"On the other hand, I do desire to be heard briefly in regard to the charges which have been brought against me."

"In the first place it is claimed that the employment of Mr. Eyanon was contrary to good morals. It is difficult, Mr. President, to know exactly what is meant by this expression 'contrary to good morals,' but if it means anything at all, it must mean that there was something in the employment which was immoral in the sense of being dishonorable or corrupt. To this charge, Mr. President, I plead not guilty."

"Dishonorable or Corrupt?"

"There was nothing in his employment which was dishonorable or corrupt. Not one dollar of the public money was wasted. Not a penny was expended for the purpose of any sinister purpose."

"I did not profit to the extent of one dollar by any part of this transaction. It happens that I have not a single dollar invested in any of the products of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, which might be presumed to be represented by an official of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association."

"Not a penny of the public money stuck to my fingers, nor to the fingers of Mr. Eyanon. On the contrary, whatever he received, while on the Government payroll, was turned over to the clerk who continues to perform the same functions in my office as he had done previously, and as he has continued to do since."

"There was nothing about the transaction that was dishonorable or corrupt. The Connecticut Manufacturers' Association did not seek any unfair advantage. In loaning me one of their highly paid officials, they did so at my request. I did not make him a clerk, but I did make him a person in Connecticut who was best posted on all sides of the tariff problem."

"Mr. Eyanon behaved throughout as an exemplary citizen, endeavoring his best to make me the facts as to why certain increases or certain decreases in the tariff schedules were necessary. In no case did he attempt to deceive me. In all cases did he make an effort to bring the facts to my attention. There is no evidence whatsoever that he misrepresented the facts or attempted to cloud the issue, or in any way whatsoever attempted to gain any unfair advantage for the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association."

"If the four clerks are inefficient, lazy, indifferent, or absent from their post of duty, his constituents will suffer and he himself will be answerable to his constituents."

"According to business ethics, such employment might be regarded as a mistake, but it should be remembered that, according to Senate ethics, those four clerical positions have always been considered to be part of the prerogative of a Senator to be used by him in whatever manner he deems to be best for the interest of his constituents."

Two Women Give Bond—100
Players Found at Gravo's
Social Club.

An hour after the Graves Social Club had opened its first lotto game Saturday night at 4874 Hanover avenue, Luxembourg, Deputy Sheriff Hugo Linnell, sergeant and two women broke down the door and took two women to Clayton, where they were released on $1000 bonds each.

The women, Mrs. Anna Rille, 4340 Wilcox avenue, ticket collector, and Mrs. Anna Knelcher, 5227 Morganford road, who called the women the players, gave up their occupations as housewives. They contended that the hall was operated as a private social club, and was maintained only by a membership card.

A lotto game conducted at the hall, owned by Edward Esbach, was closed on April 1 when Linnell and his men broke down the hall on Easton avenue also raided by Sheriff Lill.

GETS 60 DAYS IN WORKHOUSE FOR BEATING GIRL WITH POKER
John Neely Was Angered Because

John Neely, 62-year-old carpenter, was sentenced to 60 days in the Workhouse by Judge Butler in Court of Criminal Correction today on a charge of common assault brought by 19-year-old Anna Pettit.

The girl testified that she failed to rise last Oct. 12, when Neely called her, and he struck her on the beat with a poker. She had been living with Neely and his wife and daughter at 3617 Leola avenue for the past year.

Neely told the judge he threatened to send the girl to a corrective institution if she persisted in lying late a-bed and that she rose and choked him. He flung her off, he said, and did not know how the injury was suffered.

Conviction followed testimony of policemen who said Neely told them he had "just given her a good beating."

BODIES FOUND IN OLD FORT

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The finding is announced of two bodies, thought to be those of Gen. Trideaux and Col. Johnston, British officers killed in 1759 during an attack on old Fort Niagara, then held by the French. Workmen restoring the old fort, who were making excavations to locate the foundations of a French chapel, came upon the bones Saturday. William W. Kincaid, president of the old Fort Niagara Association, said there is every reason to believe the bones are those of the British officers. Gen. Trideaux was in charge of the British troops which attacked the French fort and he and Col. Johnston were killed two days before the fort was surrendered to British troops in command of Sir William Johnson. After their death the two officers were buried outside the fort and later their bodies were buried under the French chapel.

STUDENT SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH AT MISSOURI U.

William B. Rogers Sees Football Game and Then Ends Life—Act Long Contemplated, Note Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA Mo., Nov. 4.—Explaining in a carefully written note that he had long contemplated killing himself, William B. Rogers, 23-year-old University of Missouri student in the college of arts and science, spent Saturday afternoon with his Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers at the Missouri-Kansas Aggie football game and late at night went to his room and fatally shot himself.

Two pistol shots were heard by Morse Condit of Eastonville, Ok., and W. H. Johnson of Columbia, students who were in a room across the hall. They found Rogers lying across a bed. He died an hour later in the University of Missouri Hospital.

At his side was an old style .32-caliber revolver with two of its five shells discharged. Nearby were three letters. One, addressed to his fraternity brothers, explained that his suicide was the result of long contemplation and also requested that several small bills be paid.

A second, to Mrs. Minnie Rogers, his mother, of Trenton, Mo., and a third, to a young woman friend of Trenton, Mo., were both left sealed by E. G. Davis, coroner.

The bills amounted to about $50 and were stacked neatly with the three notes. One bill was owed to the Phi Delta Theta chapter here. Rogers had been a member of Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colo., chapter of the fraternity, but, although a frequent visitor at the chapter house here, was not affiliated. He often took his meals there.

The youth was enrolled in agricultural chemistry and was a year ago laboratory assistant chemist to Dr. Henry D. Hooker, associate professor of horticulture, at the Missouri College of Agriculture, who was found dead of electric shock from a water heater in his bathtub a week ago Sunday morning.

Rogers was the nephew of Mrs. Carrie Rogers Clark, publisher of the Trenton (Mo.) Republican Times. This father, who died in 1914, was Noble Rogers, who was editor of the Republican Times.

HEARING ON COMPLAINTS

ON INSURANCE "TWISTING"

Deputy State Superintendent Holland to Take Evidence Here Wednesday and Thursday.

Because of complaints that certain life insurance agents in St. Louis have been engaging in sales tactics commonly known as "twisting", J. B. Thompson, State superintendent of insurance, has arranged for a hearing on the matter at the City Hall Wednesday and Thursday. Deputy Superintendent Joseph Holland will conduct the hearing.

"Twisting" in the language of insurance men, is generally understood to mean persuading a policy holder to cash in his policy in one company in order to purchase a policy in another company. In some States the practice is specifically prohibited by statute if there is any misrepresentation. There is no law covering the point in Missouri, but a regulation of the Insurance Department forbidding such practice where misrepresentation is involved has been in effect since 1915.

The Life Underwriters' Association of St. Louis recently appointed a committee to investigate reports of "twisting" by St. Louis agents, and this committee had some correspondence with the State Insurance Department, but did not file any formal charges.

CAPT. STERCHI TO BE BURIED

AT JEFFERSON BARRACKS

Son-in-Law of City Collector Koeln Died Saturday in San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements for Capt. Frederick W. T. Sterchi, son-in-law of City Collector Koeln, who died Saturday in a military hospital at San Francisco, are held in abeyance pending the arrival of the widow with the body late Wednesday afternoon. The funeral, it is thought, will be held Friday at the Koeln home, 2212 Loughborough avenue. Burial will take place in the military cemetery at Jefferson Barracks.

Capt. Sterchi died of a heart attack. He was 31 years old and had been in charge of prisoners on Alcatraz Island for the last two years. When he was married to Miss Geraldine Ann Koeln in 1916, he was stationed at Jefferson Barracks with the Sixth Infantry. Later he attended the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., and subsequently was transferred to Alcatraz. In addition to his widow, he is survived by three sisters who live in Olney, Ill., his birthplace.

WHY PHYSICIANS

DON'T "DOCTOR"

THEMSELVES

Physicians realize that it is extremely difficult for patients to correctly diagnose their own ills.

Hence, when the physicians themselves become ill they immediately secure the service of brother practitioners.

Why attempt to treat your own ills—a thing which physicians will not attempt for themselves—despite their greater medical knowledge and experience?

Whenever you are ill get your doctor's advice. Bring us your prescriptions. Our pharmacists are thoroughly capable and experienced.

BATTLE IN CHINA*Nationalists Declare Their Forces Routed People's Army Near Chengchow,
Capturing 20,000.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4.—A Nationalist Government communique issued today stated that Nationalist troops scored a decisive victory 80 miles west of Chengchow, in Honan province, "capturing 20,000 soldiers of the Kuomintang (People's army). As a result the Kuomintang forces are withdrawing to the west and the Nationalists are approaching Loyang."

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Nov. 4.—The Japanese Military Intelligence today said the army of Marshal Fong Yu-hsien, or People's Army, had inflicted a decisive defeat on Nationalist troops near Loehokow, Hupeh.

Dispatches from Chengchow said 10,000 Nationalist troops deserted and began ravaging the countryside, while an equal number refused to fight. The fighting was said to have extended along the northwest border of Hupeh and Honan.

The Japanese dispatch said: "The Kuomintang crushed the Nationalist forces, the victory resulting in great confusion."

Wounded Nationalists were said to be entering Chengchow from the west, with most of them suffering from bayonet and sword wounds. This was taken to indicate the Kuomintang was engaged in hand-to-hand combat to conserve ammunition.

Chinese Said to Have Retreated on Russian Front.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Nov. 4.—Chinese sources in Harbin, Manchuria, today said two soviet gunboats and two soviet airplanes had been captured in fighting between Chinese and Russians at Fuchinsien.

An earlier telegram from Harbin said severe fighting had taken place there and that Chinese troops had retired 60 miles in the direction of Huachuan.

Warm Debate in Conference Over Japanese Position.

By the Associated Press.

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 4.—The Institute of Pacific Relations took up the Manchurian question in the first of three days of debate today, in sessions at which the press was barred.

It was learned that while the proceedings were decorous, there were several verbal clashes in which champions of the Japanese and Chinese defenses of alleged Japan's position in Manchuria.

Outstanding in the discussion were the remarks of Macanoo Hanhara, who declared Japan's relations in Manchuria were analogous to those of the United States in Cuba and Haiti, and to Great Britain's in Egypt, and that Japan was unable to recede from a position based on national necessity and treaty rights.

Chinese spokesmen assailed this position, being especially bitter concerning the employment of Japanese troops to police Manchuria. They cited instances of alleged tyrannies and injustices to which the Japanese replied with warmth. An American spokesman emphasized that the inevitable march of events was working in China's favor, and urged patience regarding relatively minor frictions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The United States Supreme Court decided today the Federal Farm Loan Board and receivers of Joint Stock Land Banks are without authority to levy assessments against stockholders of such banks or sue them for the amount of their personal liability.

The court held the board and receivers must proceed in the courts to set up their rights and let the courts decide what should be done.

Coughs and Chest Colds Are Relieved When Treated
By Hospital Method Now Certified for Home Use

A tempting taste! Quick, welcome relief! Then the of seeing a head cold or chest cold disappear entirely—overnight—when treated by a pleasant hospital method now certified for home use. And this experience of Miss Bertha L. hospital nurse, has been shared by vast numbers of people in Louis and throughout the State.

Soon Ended "Achy"
"Feverish" Feeling

Long hours of duty as a nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls caused Miss Lee to catch a severe cold. It began in her head, but she made the mistake of neglecting it until congestion started spreading rapidly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised the Ayer's Pectoral formula—hospital certified medication—wild cherry, terpin, hyacinth and other ingredients to be reduced fever, clear up congestion and drive out the cold. Relief began immediately, as she felt the soothing, healing warmth from her nose passages deep into her chest. Within an hour so the medication had been absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion and relieving the "achy" feeling. By night she returned to the and in another day or so, the doctor reports, congestion was gone completely and there was no trace of the cold.

The Ayer's Pectoral formula is hospital certified remedy recommended as a result of scientific tests by leading hospital physicians working in co-operation with the medical staff of the Ayer laboratory.

Ayer's Pectoral was certified as the best of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, safest relief with absolute safety. It is now prepared by all leading druggists.

TWO TEXANS HELD FOR MURDER OF BORGER ATTORNEY

Former Deputy Constable and Boilerworks Owner Deny Implication in Death of Prosecutor.

BORGER, Tex., Nov. 4.—Former Deputy Constable Samuel Jones and James Hodges were placed in jail Saturday, charged with the murder of District Attorney John Holmes last Sept. 15. Holmes' murder was the immediate cause of the declaring of martial law in Borger. The charges were filed by Deputy Sheriff Burton, who brought Jones back Friday from New Mexico, on an indictment for a liquor law violation. Hodges, manager of a boiler works here, was arrested at his home. Hodges was once prosecuted by Holmes and freed in a pipe theft case. Officials expressed confidence that they had made a decisive move toward solving the Holmes mystery, but refused to give their reasons for thinking so. County Attorney Henry Meyers said that the "ramifications" of the case were widespread and would involve an enormous amount of work.

Hodges was questioned here last night, but Deputy Sheriff Burton said the prisoner insisted he was innocent. Holmes was assassinated Sept. 15 by a gunman who shot from ambush as the District Attorney was putting his car into his garage. After an investigation, State rangers declared that a conspiracy had existed between lawbreakers and some officials. Gov. Moody declared martial law and charged that "a deeply entrenched criminal ring" dominated the county. Resignation of all county and city officials was forced and new officers were installed after they had met the approval of the Governor's representative. Last night's arrests, however, were the first indication that authorities had any tenable theories as to the assassin.

Predicts Early Trial.
Jones was one of the first men arrested when the troops established martial law. He was held during the martial law period, but later was released on bond and went to New Mexico, from where he was returned last week. District Attorney Clem Calhoun said last night he believed that by the first of the year a jury in Hutchinson County would give the murderer of John Holmes the death penalty.

J. LUTHER SECOR FUNERAL SERVICE THIS AFTERNOON

Attorney, Who Died Suddenly Saturday to Be Buried at Carrollton, Ill.

Funeral services for James Luther Secor, who had practiced law here intermittently for 50 years, was held this afternoon at Lupton's undertaking chapel, 4449 Olive street. Burial will be at Carrollton, Ill., his former home. He was 75 years old, lived at the Beers Hotel and had an office in the Bank of Commerce Building.

Mr. Secor was found dead in a washroom of the Paul Brown Building. Several deaths, however, resulted, apparently, from heart disease.

He was admitted to the bar in St. Louis in 1879. As a young man he represented the plaintiff in the case of Van Cleave against Berkley, in which the Missouri Supreme Court decided the liability of subscribers to corporate stock. From 1892 until 1896 he was land commissioner of the Cotton Belt Railroad. After engaging in various commercial enterprises, he returned to the practice of law in 1903. Recently he had been comparatively inactive.

PAGEANT OF JEWISH HISTORY SHOWN BY ZIONIST SOCIETY

Twelfth Anniversary of Lord Balfour's Declaration Observed at Banquet.

A pageant depicting the wanderings of the Jewish people during 1850 years of exile and their final return to the permanent home assured them by the British Government was presented by the Zionist and Hadassah organizations at a banquet last night in Hotel Jefferson. The occasion was the twelfth anniversary of Lord Balfour's declaration.

The story of Jewish migrations was pictured in 11 scenes and included flights before early persecutors, the landing at Plymouth Rock, rejection of immigrants under the shadow of the Statue of Liberty, the reconstruction of Palestine and the finale, "Homeward Bound." The tableaux were arranged and directed by Mrs. M. J. Slonim of 5593 Waterman avenue. The Hadassah and Zionist organizations, comprising 250 St. Louisans, are assisting in the world-wide effort to formulate a program for the establishment of Palestine as the national home of the Jews.

"Knock-outs!" —they all say so

"It's a knockout!" That's about the most sincere compliment a young fellow can pay a topcoat these days. In fact, that's what they all say when they first see these elegant new topcoats for Fall.

Of course, that's not surprising. The "Windsor," pictured above, comes in snappy Black-and-White Tweed as well as in the distinctive Blue and Red-Brown shades.

And there's the "Polo" in Sudan Tan and Tahoe Blue Camel's hair effect. You'd willingly pay $40.00 or more for topcoats with the style and the fabrics these coats have. We, ourselves, cannot think of a better way to describe them than to repeat—"They're knockouts!"

IT'S COLD SOON RELIEVED

Used to Find How Quickly Head Colds and Colds Are Relieved When Treated
Method Now Certified for Home Use

Quick, welcome relief! Then the cold or chest cold disappear entirely—often treated by a pleasant hospital method now. And this experience of Miss Bertha L. has been shared by vast numbers of people in the State.

Soon Ended "Achy"

"Feverish" Feeling

Long hours of duty as nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls caused Miss Lee to catch a severe cold. It began in her head, but she made the mistake of neglecting it until congestion started spreading rapidly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised the Ayer's Pectoral formula—hospital certified medication—wild cherry, terpin, hyacinth and other ingredients to help reduce fever, clear up congestion and drive out the cold. Relief began immediately, while she felt its soothing, healing warmth from her nose passages deep down into her chest. Within an hour so the medication had been absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion and relieving the "achy" feeling. By night she returned to her room and in another day or so, the doctor reports, congestion was gone completely and there was no trace left of the cold.

The Ayer's Pectoral formula is hospital certified remedy recently perfected as a result of scientific tests by leading hospital physicians working in co-operation with the medical staff of the Ayer Laboratory.

Ayer's Pectoral was certified as the best of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, surest relief with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

CLEANERS STRIKE AT THE PLANT OF OPEN SHOP LEADER

All but 10 of the 60 Union Employees of Metropolitan Co. Walk Out—No Disturbance.

A strike of union employees at the Metropolitan Cleaning Co., 1716 North Garrison avenue, was called today following the announcement Saturday that the St. Louis Cleaners and Dyers' Association had severed relations with the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers' Union No. 17320 and in the future would operate "open shop."

All but 10 of the 60 union employees struck and the company is preparing to operate with non-union workers. E. C. Werner, president of the concern and head of the association, announced.

Werner charged that "gangsters" kept a number of the union workers from entering the plant. A policeman was stationed at the plant, but apparently found no call for his services, and occupied an easy chair in the office. At the next corner a union representative with a "strike picket" banner planned to his overcoat shivered with cold as he informed passersby that the Metropolitan concern was "unfair."

Four Abide by Agreement. A. M. Quinn, who has succeeded Edward L. (Toots) Clark, as secretary and business agent of the union, denied that any intimidation was necessary to enforce the union strike order.

The strike was called only at the Metropolitan plant today because of Werner's position as president of the association, although 21 of the 25 concerns in the association have declared for open shop. Four companies, Tabler, Morgan, Staten Island and United Cleaning Co., have notified the union that they will abide by the present working agreement, which does not expire until Feb. 15.

Quinn announced the Executive Committee of the union would meet tomorrow night to discuss the question of strikes at the other open shop plants. In a statement Saturday, Quinn charged the plant owners, with the exception of the four mentioned, with ignoring the working agreement and attempting to force a general strike in an effort to establish an excuse for open shop operations.

Say No Wage Cut Is Planned. The only explanation employers would give for reverting to the open shop after two years experience with union conditions was, "we desire no further dealings with union leaders." No wage reduction is planned at this time, although employers expressed themselves in favor of a system by which employees are paid according to their skill and the nature of their services. Employers also desire to hire extra help not affiliated with organized labor when needed.

The St. Louis Cleaners & Dyers Association is composed of wholesale firms, which accepted unionism in their plants two years ago. The Master Cleaners Association, a group of 13 retail firms headed by the Lungstrass Co., the largest cleaning concern in St. Louis, resisted the efforts of the union and have continued to operate open shop throughout. The membership of the union numbers about 750 men and women employed in 25 wholesale plants.

Union leaders announced that the support of the Central Trades and Labor Union, with which the cleaners' organization is affiliated, would be sought.

110 Plants Lock Doors Against Union Workers in Chicago. CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—One hundred and ten plants affiliated with the Master Cleaners and Dyers' Association today locked their doors against 3200 union workers. But they promised to re-open in a week to nonunion labor. Fifty per cent of the employees have signified willingness to quit the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers' Union, C. L. Patterson, executive secretary of the employers' association, announced. He said the plants would reopen next Monday "and the men and women who return to work will be protected."

The union was losing $15,000 a day, Patterson said, and the plants were losing $135,000. He explained the fight was not with union labor but with Ben Abrams, who dominated the union and who had projected a $1,000,000 cleaning plant to be operated by the union. Patterson said he would confer with the Federal District Attorney today concerning possible Government action against the union for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act through restraint of trade.

14,000 SUNDAY VISITORS AT CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOWS

Fourteen thousand persons visited St. Louis' two chrysanthemum shows yesterday. The exhibition in Shaw's Garden attracted almost 4000, while the display in the city greenhouse in Forest Park was viewed by more than 8000. The mums can be seen at both places every day from 9 to 5 o'clock during November. During December poinsettias take their place.

Chapman Leadership in Quality Cleaning Will Be Maintained

Chapman Co., the community's chief mill employed about 40 persons. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was forced to pull some box cars out of the fire zone.

FOX SELLS HOLDINGS IN FIRST NATIONAL

Warner Brothers Pay $10,000,000 for 25,000 Shares of Stock in Picture Company.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—William Fox, president of Fox Film Corporation, today announced completion of the sale of his company's stock holdings in First National Pictures Corporation to Warner Brothers for a sum in excess of $10,000,000.

By the terms of the transaction Fox Films relinquished title to more than 25,000 shares of First National stock which it valued on its books at approximately $3,442,012.

Both Fox and Warner Brothers were in joint control of First National for the past few years. Negotiations for the transaction were conducted through Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia and New York banker.

Mr. Fox said that Fox Film Corporation would apply such profits as accrued from the sale in liquidating all costs now being carried on his company's books for silent motion pictures.

"Talking pictures have made the silent films obsolete," he said. "Not only have they come as a permanent feature of the world's entertainment, but their appeal and drawing power exceed by far the potential value of the old silent pictures."

U. S. DREDGE FLOTILLA MOVED UP OSAGE RIVER TO DAM SITE
TUSCUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 4.—The Government dredge flotilla, accompanied by various boats owned by Bolt Construction Co., has passed up the Osage River to Dam Site, where work in excavating for the $30,000,000 hydro-electric project of the Union Electric Co. is to start soon. The Bolt company has the contract for the excavation.

Old river men said the passing of the flotilla reminded them of early days, when much of the commerce between St. Louis and this section of the Ozarks was by water.

Most of the Osage River commerce now is the rafting of ties and logs to various railroad points on the stream.

MISSING NAVAL PLANE LANDS

Pilot Had Been Lost in Clouds With Low Fuel Supply.

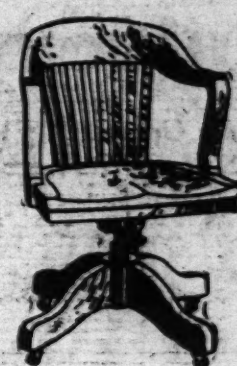

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 4.—Lost in the clouds with his fuel supply running low, Ensign George F.

Hatfield, pilot of the naval sea-plane reported missing Saturday on a flight from Philadelphia to Norfolk, landed his plane alongside the Commodore Rollins, Norwegian fruit steamer, 15 miles off the Virginia Cape, Saturday night. Learning his position, Ensign Hatfield requested that he be towed inside the Cape and the fruit steamer, bound for Philadelphia to British Honduras, took the seaplane in tow. A rescue steamer had no word news of the safety of the plane and its occupants was received at the Hampton Roads naval air station until yesterday.

MANY men have sought words to describe that "extra something" in Chesterfield.

It is there, undoubtedly... a "sparkle" of spicier aroma, an extra touch of flavor, a certain added "character," unmistakably Chesterfield's own.

No one word describes it—but only the most inexperienced smoker could fail to mark it. Between other cigarettes and Chesterfield, there is the clear-cut difference between just something to smoke and the cigarette that puts—

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Prices Reduced $27

WE are happy to announce today a reduction of $27 in the price of Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio.

This is Atwater Kent's way of joining with the leaders of other great industries to stabilize the public's dollar for the prosperity of the country.

Hundreds of thousands of people want Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio right now. By these price reductions we are putting the finest radio set within the reach of everyone—just when most purchasers of radio are ready to do their buying.

This company owns outright its business and its manufacturing plant. It has done business on its own capital for twenty-seven increasingly profitable years and has never borrowed a dollar. Today it is in the strongest position it has ever held.

For the past seven months we have been making Screen-Grid Radio in the largest and most efficient radio factory in the world.

Concentrating on one job—the production of the finest radio that can be built—enables the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company again to share with the public the savings of our large-scale operation.

These price reductions mean the greatest value ever offered in Atwater Kent Radio.

PROHIBITION HAS "LUNATIC FRINGE" JUDGE FARIS SAYS

We Either Look Down on and Spurn Dry Law or Worship It," He Tells
New Grand Jurors.

ACCENTUATES NEED FOR DISCRETION

Quotes Jones Law's Admonition to Discriminate Between Petty and Serious Offenses.

The prohibition situation has "lunatic fringe" on both sides, Federal Judge Faris observed today while impaneling a new Federal grand jury. Judge Faris, in his instructions to the jury, paid particular attention to the dry law, and explained:

"I do this because a man must be deaf, dumb and blind who does not know that this matter of the national prohibition act is highly controversial.

"Some think this is the greatest law ever passed since the beginning of time, others think just the reverse. There is a wide difference of opinion on this question. I might add in the words of Roosevelt that this situation has 'lunatic fringe' on both sides.

"You may have your own view of this law, but as patriotic, decent citizens you must regard this law as any other. Consider all the acts laid before you with an honest eye and act accordingly.

"I don't mean by this that this law has any greater importance than any other law. It hasn't. It is exactly the same importance as any other law. The trouble has been that we either look down upon this law and spurn it or put it on a pedestal and worship it."

Stresses Need for Discretion.

Regarding the Volstead act and the Jones amendment to it which went into effect last March, Judge Faris, for the benefit of the grand jury, twice read a provision of the Jones measure calling upon the courts to "discriminate between casual or slight violations and habitual sales of intoxicating liquor or attempts to commercialize violations of the law." Judge Faris addressed not to grand or petit jurors, but to the courts.

Judge Faris has frequently announced from the bench that he is personally opposed to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

It will be recalled that the last grand jury, after voting a few indictments under the Jones amendment in aggravated cases, split on other cases and told District Attorney Brewer not to present any more Jones law cases for its consideration.

Judge Faris delivered the usual instruction against overzealousness, reminding the jurors that the District Attorney and his assistants were "to aid the jury and not supersede it. Do not be swayed from your personal view, as to whether there is sufficient evidence to convict, by the zealousness or ardor of a prosecutor."

W. A. Bell Chosen Foreman.
Judge Faris selected Wallace A. Bell of Kirkwood, assistant treasurer of the Mercantile-Commerce Co., as foreman of the grand jury. Other jurors are: Corby F. A. Kirkwood; H. L. Burwell, Wellsville; William R. Costello, St. Louis; James P. Duvall, St. Louis; Edwin Bell, St. Charles; George W. Fitzroy, St. Louis; Milton A. Wilbur's Plans for Control And Distribution of Power Of Boulder Dam Opposed

It Would Give Private Corporation Two Members of Directing Body and 25 Pct. of Output.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The plan tentatively adopted by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur for operation of the Government power plant to be constructed in connection with Boulder Dam has drawn vigorous protests from the Western states most directly affected, and will culminate in a public hearing before the Secretary Nov. 12, at which the effort will be made to induce him to revise the plan. Meantime, additional appeals for the intervention of President Hoover will be made.

Chief among the complaints against the plan are these: That it allocates too much of the power to private power interests, and gives those interests too large a share in the management of the plant; that the proposed division of control among public agencies and private interests is certain to produce discord; and that it ends all hope of establishing a Government "yardstick" by which the costs of power production could be accurately measured.

Representative Philip Swing of California, author of the original Boulder Dam bill in Congress, is one of the principal critics of the Secretary's plan. He considers that, in allocating a large share of the power to the Southern California Edison Co., it violates the spirit of the Boulder Dam act, which specified that in allocating the power, preference should be given to states, municipalities and other public agencies. Public agencies have applied for all the power that will be available.

Unable to Get Hoover to Act. Swing said that he and the Western communities for which he has acted as spokesman have not abandoned hope of inducing Secretary Wilbur to alter his proposal, although admitting that the prospect is not encouraging. Thus far all efforts to obtain intervention by President Hoover have been fruitless.

As introduced by Swing, and passed by the House, the Boulder Dam act provided for Government operation of the power plant. One of the principal arguments in favor of Government operation was that it would afford a means by which the cost of producing power on a large scale and thereon the cost of distribution could be ascertained.

Under the plan, the power plant would be operated by the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California and the Southern California Edison Co., and its associates, the largest group of private power interests in the West. It allocated 50 per cent of the power to the Metropolitan Water District, 25 per cent to the city of Los Angeles and 25 per cent to the Southern California Edison—all subject to certain deductions.

Under these deductions, the following additional allocations of power would be made: Nevada, not to exceed 18 per cent; Arizona, not to exceed 18 per cent; and municipalities which shall apply for power within a year, not to exceed 4 per cent each. The volume of power taken under these allocations would be proportionately deducted from the three general allocations.

Makeup of Board of Control. The plan provides for a board of control consisting of five members, one from the water district, one from the city of Los Angeles, two from the Southern California Edison and one to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. The water district, it should be explained, consists of a large number of cities in Southern California, associated in obtaining a water supply. This water must be pumped across the mountains from the Colorado River, and the power allocated to the district will all be devoted to pumping.

Los Angeles has a municipal power plant, but it is able to supply only about half the power consumed in the city. The remainder is purchased by the city from the Southern California Edison.

Power obtained by the city from Boulder Dam will supplement the supply from the municipal plant. Los Angeles and the water district are offered to take all the power that could be supplied by the Boulder Dam plant.

Officials of Los Angeles, the Water District and the Edison Co. are all in favor of the plan. The Government equip and operate the plant, and sell the power at the switchboard, as the Swing bill originally provided. Such an arrangement, they pointed out, would have assured unity of control, and would have enabled municipalities and other public agencies to bid openly against private companies for the power.

The secretary's plan to have the Government build the power house, and then to allow the city, the district and the company to join in equipping and operating it, is criticized as expensive, unnatural and clumsy. It is contended: First, that the cost of installing the machinery after the power house has been built, will be about $2,000,000 greater than if the building and the installation were carried out simultaneously in the usual way. Second, it is argued that for the Secretary to ask the city and the district to join in the enterprise with the Southern California Edison is like asking two Kilkenny cats to co-operate, since the city and the district have been fighting the company bitterly for years.

In this connection, the point has been made that their aims are certain to conflict, since it will be the purpose of the city and the district to furnish power to consumers at the lowest possible rate, while it will be to the interest of the company to sell at the highest possible rate. Thus the prospect of discord among those in charge of operation is foreseen. Certainly, "For years," related Swing, "the Southern California Edison has tried to prevent the establishment of publicly owned and operated power plants in its territory. It has opposed bond issues for that purpose—usually under the name of some high-sounding civic organization—and has conducted itself as such companies usually do toward the question of public ownership. As usual, its principal argument has been that public operation is inefficient. Here we have an opportunity to prove whether public operation is more efficient—and we find that the company has horned in to assume a share of the control."

It is obvious that it would be to the company's interest to have the operation of the Government plant turn out badly. It is obvious that if the company is given joint control of that operation it will be in a position to see that it does turn out badly. We don't want to be situated where it can throw a monkey wrench into the machinery.

Complaint of Company's Power.

Other objectors point out that, under Secretary Wilbur's plan, the measure of control is given to the company which is out of proportion to the expense which it will bear in equipping the plant, and out of proportion to the amount of power allocated to it. The expense is in direct ratio to the amount of power taken, and the company's power allocation is 25 per cent, less deductions for municipalities. In contrast, it is to have two-fifths of the members on the board of control.

It is evident that the deciding vote on the board will be that of the member appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. This arrangement is not too satisfactory either to Swing or to the states and municipalities which are interested. They feel that the attitude displayed by Secretary Wilbur thus far indicates that the member appointed by him will be sympathetic toward the company's viewpoint. And even if the first appointments were satisfactory they have no guarantee that successive ones would be.

When it was indicated, several days ago, that Secretary Wilbur would decide against Government equipment and operation of the plant, the delegation representing states and city in the interested area sought an interview with the President. As Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover took a leading part in the negotiations leading up to the passage of the Boulder Dam legislation, and frequently advised the states on the problem. They felt that he would be sympathetic toward their view. However, he declined to discuss the subject, and when the delegation announced an intention to "camp on the White House doorstep" when the President returned from his Ohio River trip, Secretary Wilbur suddenly announced his decision and tentative plan.

Fear Control by Warring Agencies. The cost of constructing Boulder Dam together with the all-American irrigation canal to the Imperial Valley, building the power house and equipping it, has been estimated at $165,000,000, of which about $25,000,000 represents the cost of installing the power machinery. The Government's entire investment is to be repaid over a period of 50 years or less.

So insistent are the city of Los Angeles and the Water District on having the Federal Government operate the power plant, that it is possible they may offer to buy all the machinery and present it to the Government as a gift. This suggestion is being widely discussed in California. In addition to the dangers of a control divided among hostile agencies, it is argued that the Government should not surrender control of the plant by which its investment is to be repaid.

DIRIGIBLE R-101 SPENDS FIRST NIGHT ALOFT IN TEST

Cooling System Pipes, Broken by Vibration, to Be Replaced With Heavier Metal.

By the Associated Press.
CARDINGTON, England, Nov. 4.—The dirigible R-101 was hitched to her mooring mast at 10 o'clock yesterday morning after her first all night flight, which lasted 14 hours.

The huge airship, carrying a full crew and in command of Major Scott, carried out speed and altitude tests on the southern coast in the vicinity of the Isle of Wight. During the final operations for hooking the dirigible to the mast, the airship bumped her nose and tore the envelope but the structural damage was slight. It was reported that during the flight three engines gave some trouble because of bends in the pipes of the cooling apparatus splitting. These were repaired with rubber hose.

The operation in each case took about an hour. Officials said the experience proved the vibration in the engine too violent for duralumin pipes. They will be replaced by larger copper pipes. The airship will be ready for flight Tuesday.

ENGLISH PLAN TO REDUCE UNEMPLOYMENT OUTLINED

J. H. Thomas Says $55,000,000 Water Project Is Contemplated In Discussing Policies.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Employment, today outlined the Laborite plans for meeting the unemployment problem now acute in Great Britain. Thomas said he never pretended to have any magic wand for the solution of the unemployment problem. He said that the Government was planning to spend $55,000,000 in the last three months by the unemployment grant committee giving approximately 500,000 men months of direct employment. Furthermore, schemes involving the expenditure of $55,000,000 were now being considered by the water authorities.

It Is To Be "Grandeur and Misery of a Victory."

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 4.—The title of the forthcoming book of Georges Clemenceau, former French Premier, on which he has worked assiduously during his recent illness, is "Grandeur and Misery of a Victory."

The author today informed a friend Marcel Huttin of the Echo de Paris, he had completed the last chapter, but that in correcting proofs of other chapters he had modified them considerably and consequently did not know when the book would be ready for the printer. Huttin said he found Clemenceau in great form, in marked contrast to a week ago. "Well, you've come to offer me an under-Sarkisanship of state, I suppose," Clemenceau said to him.

TURKISH WOMEN WIN STRIKE

2000 Peasants Obtain Wages Equal to Men's.

ANGORA, Turkey, Nov. 4.—For the first time in history Turkish women workers have gone on strike. The strike was inaugurated by 2000 peasants in the district of Angora, who were still wearing their veils. They were employed by the Turkish Forest Exploitation Co. They walked out because they received only 25 cents a day, half of the wages paid to men. They demanded, and got, wages equal to the men's.

NO CONSCRIPTION FOR ITALIANS ABROAD

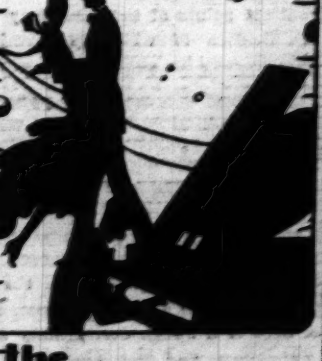

Modification of Claims Excepted During War Announced by Embassy.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Settlement of the long-standing question of military service in Italy of Italian naturalized in the United States and persons born of Italian parents while in America was decided last night in an unofficial statement of the Italian Embassy.

The statement indicated that Italian naturalized in the two American continents would be free to return with exemption from military service to the land of their nativity.

The royal Italian Government, upon examining the proportion between the results of the compulsory conscription and the actual military contingent approved by the financial laws, the statement said, "would have no interest to impose military duties in time of peace to citizens residing in far-away countries; for instance, transoceanic countries, in place of citizens residents of nearest countries; it is not altogether residents of Italy, and therefore, under all circumstances which are not of war, Italian citizens residing on the other side of the ocean, notwithstanding the kind of passport which they might present in Italy, whether issued by Italian authorities or by the authorities of the foreign country where they were born, cannot but be considered in excess of the necessity of Italian military service in time of peace, and therefore free from being molested in any way, as far as military service duties are concerned, even past duties, provided they have no reference to time of war."

ST. LOUIS TO ADVANCE CLAIMS AT AIR MAIL HEARING NOV. 25

Three Routes Being Considered by Government; Commerce Chamber to Be Represented.

The claims of St. Louis to a direct air mail route to and from New York will again be advanced at a hearing Nov. 25, in Washington, on the proposal to establish a new Southwestern transcontinental air line. The Interdepartmental Committee on Airways of the Post-Office Department will conduct the hearing, at which the Air Board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will represent St. Louis.

One of the possible results of the hearing is the granting of an air line from New York to the coast which would include a direct New York to St. Louis air mail route. The full route, it has been suggested, would have for stopping places—New York, St. Louis, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Los Angeles.

A second plan calls for a route from Atlanta to Birmingham, Fort Worth, Dallas, Los Angeles. The third possibility is a route from New Orleans to the coast. The advantages of each route will be fully discussed at the hearing.

ACQUITTED IN KILLING MOTHER TO END PAIN

French Jury Frees Richard Corbett Who Said His Act Was Justified.

By the Associated Press.
DRAGUIGNAN, France, Nov. 4.—Richard Corbett was acquitted by a jury today of the charge of murdering his invalid mother last May.

This is the eighth case in four years in which the State has failed to obtain a conviction of persons who murdered invalids to put them out of their suffering.

He had made a dramatic plea to the jury declaring that though he had broken the law he felt that he had done right.

So moving was Corbett's declaration in which he said he was willing to pay any penalty the jury thought just, that one of the jurors broke down and it was necessary for the judge to suspend the trial while medical attention was given.

Corbett, who is of French-English extraction, killed his mother May 9, then shot himself but later recovered.

"I admit I killed my mother," said Corbett, calmly telling the judge and jury that he accepted full responsibility. "I knew what I was doing and I do not regret the act."

The little Courthouse was packed with spectators while soldiers with fixed bayonets guarded the doors and kept out a mob of several hundred.

SENATE COALITION GETS FREE HAND ON TARIFF BILL

Democrats Hold Conferences in Effort to Agree on Schedules That Will Minimize Debate.

FARM GROUPS URGE DUTY ON HIDES

Declare That Free Imports Reduce Prices, Affecting Ranchers as Well as Small Packers.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Administration leaders in the Senate have given the Democratic-Independent Republican coalition a free hand with the tariff bill as a last hope of reaching a final vote on this measure without encroaching materially on the time of the regular session, to convene four weeks hence.

Coalition leaders are confident that their objective will be attained and that the result of the new arrangement will be, in the words of Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic, a better bill than that passed by the House and "a far better bill" than that recommended by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Senate today adopted an amendment to the bill to reduce the present duty on synthetic camphor from 4 cents to one cent a pound. The cut, proposed by Senator La Follette (Rep.) Wisconsin, was in line with House action.

The Senate also approved an amendment by Senator Simmons (Dem.), North Carolina, to reduce from 50 to 20 cents a pound the duty of menthol. The House proposed 75 cents.

A committee amendment to increase the duty on vanilla, an aromatic chemical used in perfumes and flavoring extracts, from 45 per cent ad valorem, based on foreign valuation, to seven cents a pound of 45 per cent based on American valuation, was approved.

Another committee amendment adopted would cut the rate on synthetic indigo and sulphur black, two major dye products from seven cents a pound and 45 per cent based on American valuation, to three cents a pound and 20 per cent on the same valuation.

The Senate approved a committee resolution to increase the duty on ground or calcined gypsum from $1.40 to $3 a ton.

The leaders of the administration group, which has been defeated by the coalition, reached a decision to let the alliance have its way with the bill after many efforts to expedite action had failed and after President Hoover had called for enactment of the measure before the close of the special session.

Democrats Confer. In commenting upon the new arrangement, the Democrats Clarence D. Brown Hit by Auto While on Way to Flying Field—Two Negroes Fatally Hurt.

Clarence D. Brown, 22 years old, a member of the local Naval Reserve aviation unit, was killed at 8:30 a. m. yesterday when a motor cycle he was riding to the Municipal Airport crashed into an automobile driven by G. A. Grunhard, 6601 Sacramento avenue, Pine Lawn, at Natural Bridge and Lucas and Hunt roads.

Brown was riding west in Natural Bridge road and struck the automobile as Grunhard turned out of Lucas and Hunt road. He suffered a skull fracture, crushed chest and internal injuries and died 20 minutes later at Dr. Tiernon's Hospital in Pine Lawn.

An open verdict was returned following an inquest. John Breck, filling station attendant, who witnessed the collision, testified that Brown was traveling at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Office of Amateur Pilots. Brown, a woodworker, resided at 3518 Paris avenue, St. Louis County. He was a licensed pilot and was secretary of the St. Louis Aeronautical Association, an organization of amateur pilots. Last March 24 Brown and another member of the association were seriously injured when their plane crashed eight miles north of Lambert-St. Louis Field. Brown formerly lived at Marceline, Mo.

Robert Turner, 47, Negro laborer, was killed early yesterday when struck in front of his home, 6728A South Broadway, by an automobile driven by John J. Devaney, a merchant residing at the American Hotel, who was driving north in Broadway. Devaney told police Turner ran into the path of the machine.

Thomas Sheller Jr., a chauffeur, 4816 Delmar boulevard, suffered a possible skull fracture and concussion of the brain, and his wife, Marie, was seriously cut and bruised early yesterday, when their automobile struck a telephone pole as they drove along Olive boulevard near Ferguson avenue, University City. Both are at St. Mary's Hospital.

Fleeing Driver Arrested. Louis Dean of 730 North Fifty-first street, East St. Louis, is charged with leaving the scene of an accident, careless driving and felonious wounding as the result of a chance arrest yesterday by Police Sergeant August La Tour of the motorcycle division, who stopped him when he saw him driving with his front bumper dragging and a flat tire.

Dean is said to be the driver of an automobile which collided with a parked automobile in front of 1124 Boyle avenue and turned it over, injuring two girls and a boy who are at City Hospital. The injured, who identified Dean as the driver, are: Miss Alma Jones, 1124 Boyle avenue; Miss Edie Roediger, 5318 Maffitt avenue, and Till Colombo, 5227 Daggett avenue. Colombo and Miss Jones suffered wrenched backs and cuts and Miss Louis Earl, 5123 Pattison avenue, also in the car, was uninjured.

La Tour followed Dean from Chouteau avenue, near Boyle, to La Salle street and Compton avenue, when he placed him under arrest and inquired at the Laclede avenue station if there had been an accident in the vicinity. Dean admitted being the driver of the car in the accident after he was identified by the injured at the hospital.

One of Every 65 Missourians Paid 1927 U. S. Income Tax

Treasury Report Shows One Individual Made Return on Annual Earnings of More Than $2,000,000—97 Paid on Over $100,000.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—One Missourian last year paid Federal taxes on a net income ranging between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, according to the Treasury Department's report. "Statistics on Income for 1927." To conceal the identity of this taxpayer the department consolidated the exact amount of this particular return with that of five other Missouri taxpayers. The six had a total net income of $8,371,003, on which they paid a total tax of $1,033,665.

Out of an estimated population of 3,510,000 in Missouri, only 96,407 filed Federal income tax returns for July 1, 1927. Of these returns only 54,129, or one out of every 65 of population, reported taxable incomes. Total income taxes collected in the State amounted to $13,738,256. The average net income reported was $5201.55 and the average tax was $142.50. In 1926 the returns numbered 99,509 and the average tax was $136.

Estate taxes collected in Missouri for 1927 amounted to $1,272,586. The corporation tax amounted to $20,280,374. The total collected from estates, corporations and income sources was $45,292,716.

No Return From One County.
Of the 96,407 individual income tax returns filed for 1927, 51,859 were from St. Louis and 5780 were from St. Louis County. Jackson County, in which Kansas City is located, reported 14,240 returns. Pulaski County reported no persons having a taxable income under Federal laws. Shannon and Maries counties reported five returns each. Taney 6 and Benton and Bollinger 9 each.

The 96,407 returns reported an aggregate net income of $18,234,425, which was divided into the following classifications: Wages and salaries, $7,273,509,161; business, $70,454,574; partnerships, $30,025,235; profits from securities, $25,072,380; capital gains on assets held more than two years, $17,636,237; rentals and royalties, $24,032,441; interest on investments, $25,795,432; interest on tax-exempt securities, $1,695,071; dividends from domestic corporations, $98,062,621; and fiduciary, $6,999,889. The 54,129 Missourians who had a taxable income had an aggregate net income of $3,747,742. Ninety-seven Missourians paid taxes on net incomes ranging from $100,000 to $150,000; 26 on incomes ranging from $150,000 to $200,000; 20 on incomes from $200,000 to $250,000; 10 on incomes from $250,000 to $300,000; four on incomes from $300,000 to $400,000; five on incomes from $400,000 to $500,000; one on income between $500,000 and $750,000; one on an income between $750,000 and $1,000,000; two on incomes between $1,000,000 to $1,500,000; one on an income between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, and, as stated, one on an income between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

2017 Corporations Pay.
Out of 15,379 corporations filing returns for 1927, only 9017 reported taxable incomes. The 9017 had a gross income of $3,441,648,563 and a net income of $2,299,670,651. The 1527 corporations reporting no net taxable income had an aggregate gross income of $970,499,574 and a deficit of $66,969,915 after making the allowable deductions. The corporations with taxable incomes reported cash dividends of $129,026,972 and stock dividends of $21,378,641. The corporations paying no corporation income tax reported cash dividends of $13,795,514 and stock dividends of $812,512.

During 1928 243 returns were filed in Missouri under the estate tax laws. Of these, 177 represented taxable estates. The 243 returns represented a gross estate of $104,120,532. The 177 represented a gross estate of $97,368,520, of which $57,304,271 was taxable. The total Federal tax on this was $4,414,364, but allowances to the State reduced the amount paid to the Federal Government to $1,275,586.

289 Paid Tax on More Than $1,000,000 Income in 1927.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The records of the Treasury Department show that 290 individuals had, in 1927, an income of more than $1,000,000 each. Of this number, 63 more than in the year previous, 11 paid an income tax on more than $5,000,000, and eight on incomes of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. Twenty-three women, three of them unmarried, were included in the million-dollar income class, and one of these reported a net income of more than $1,500,000. The total income tax paid by the 290 was $98,557,237.

The Treasury statistics, which were published today, showed also an increase of 35,545 in the number of persons who paid an income tax, as compared with the preceding year, with a corresponding increase of $86,594,904 in the total income of all persons paying the Federal levy, an increase of $98,168,644 in the total tax paid, and an increase from $5308 to $5495 in the average net income of those filing returns.

The returns showed a total of $10,218,449,789 received from wages and salaries; $3,287,421,294 from individually conducted businesses; $1,755,145,025 from businesses conducted in partnership; $1,513,395,955 from profits derived from the sale of real estate, stocks and bonds; $1,081,186,018 from capital net gains from sales of assets held more than two years; $1,102,275,981 from rents and royalties; $2,026,897,032 from investments; $47,479,483 from interest on Government obligations not entirely exempt from taxation; $4,254,828,186 from dividends on stock of domestic corporations and $6,394,981 from fiduciaries. Taxpayers of the state of New York as usual showed the largest total of individual net incomes with $5,395,451,005 and a total number of 746,974 returns; Illinois was second with $2,092,908,578 and 378,855, and Pennsylvania third with $2,091,525,317 and 331,874. Jerseyville Man Missing.

Police have been asked to search for Henry Arter, 39 years old, who came to St. Louis from Jerseyville, Ill., a year and a half ago. The request was made by his father, James, and a brother, William, 2820A Caroline street.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES IN WEST FEATURE WEEK'S FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

ARMY INVADERS ILLINOIS, WHILE HARVARD PLAYS AT MICHIGAN; NOTRE DAME FACES DRAKE TEAM

By Alan Gould

Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The race for sectional and national football honors has narrowed down to a handful of surviving contenders, with the November campaign just gathering headway due to the latest and so far most spectacular series of upsets along the college gridiron fronts.

Georgia Tech, Illinois and Southern California, all top-ranking in 1929, have been tumbled to defeat in the general melee, while such sectional titleholders as Nebraska in the Big Six and Texas in the Southwest are barely hanging on in the title hunt.

On the basis of the latest performances, the most powerful armies are Pittsburg and Yale in the East, Notre Dame, Purdue and Minnesota in the Middle West, Tennessee, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Tulane in the Southern Conference group; Utah in the Rocky Mountain area and California's surprising Golden Bears on the Pacific Coast. In the other main sections, Texas Christian holds at least a temporary edge in the race for Southwestern Conference honors, while Oklahoma has Nebraska's path to the Big Six top.

Of the "Big Four" contenders for national honors who entered Saturday's fray so confidently only Notre Dame and Pittsburg emerged with prospects that are brighter than before, as a result of smashing victories over Georgia Tech and Ohio State, respectively.

Southern California and Dartmouth fell by the wayside in two of the most sensational games of the season, the Trojans before the charge of California's Bears, led by Benny Lom; the Dartmouth Indians before the Blue, led by Albie Booth and "Hoot" Ellis, a new Ell hero.

In spite of an early season setback at the hands of Georgia, no team in the country looms any more formidable now than Yale, conqueror of Brown, Army and Dartmouth on successive Saturdays.

The Bollermakers of Purdue, with one of the hardest-hitting backfields in the country, stepped into the national picture as well as the Big Ten lead by trimming Wisconsin for their fifth straight victory. Minnesota also has a clean slate, with Indiana as the latest victim, but the two remaining contenders for Western Conference honors, held for the past two years by Illinois, do not meet this week while Purdue and Iowa have an easy intersectional assignment with Mississippi.

This week's program is featured by two of the most colorful East-West engagements of the year, with Army invading the stronghold of Illinois and Harvard journeying to Michigan, but before the significance. Nevertheless there will be a battle when Red Cap's mates tread the gridiron made famous by the galloping ghost, Red Grange.

Notre Dame plays Drake. Notre Dame, after five comparatively little difficulty in disposing of Drake. It is so the Hoosiers stake their national championship bid in the game with Southern California at Chicago, Nov. 16.

Detroit, checked by a 6-6 tie with Marquette after scoring 19 victories in a row since 1927, invades West Virginia with a strong cast. Georgia, the conqueror of Yale, comes North to play Wake Forest. University in another intersectional feature.

Pittsburg's steamroller, after six victories in a row, faces the undefeated though Washington and Jefferson eleven, then only to tackle Carnegie and Penn State in succession to make it a routing finish. If the Panthers can wade through these rivals without a setback, no one will dispute their claims to national honors.

Yale has a let-up against Maryland and Dartmouth will need to reorganize its battered forces to win from Brown. Two of the few undefeated Eastern teams meet at Boston when Fordham plays Boston College. Each, however, has been tied.

Oklahoma must beat Kansas to stay in the Big Six race this week. In the Southwest, Texas faces a real struggle with Baylor while Texas Christian meets Rice and the Texas Aggies oppose Southern Methodist.

Georgia Tech, though beaten three times already, hopes to upset the Southern Conference title holder of Vanderbilt in the Dixie headliner. Kentucky's Wildcats, freed from mopping up Clemson, will seek Alabama's scalp. Tulane and Tennessee face comparatively easy assignments.

With California now in the van, awaiting the decisive clash with Stanford, the "Big Three" on the Pacific Coast take on distant foes. Stanford plays Washington at Seattle while California entertains Montana and Southern California meets Nevada at Los Angeles.

Utah is expected to clinch the Rocky Mountain Conference again in the game with Colorado College, which was defeated Saturday for the first time by the Utah Aggies.

Marines Have Own Stadium. The Quantico Marines have a football stadium of their own, seating 15,000 persons, but seldom play in it. Their football games for the most part are scheduled on the road.

U. City Eleven To Play M. M. A. In Next Contest

University City High, victorious over Maplewood in the first night football game ever witnessed in St. Louis, will dedicate its new stadium Armistice day, when the Missouri Military Academy team comes to U. City for a game. Under the floodlights at Francis Field the Indians showed a powerful attack and a fine defense win, 20-0 count.

St. Charles, leaders in the race along with U. City, also kept their record clean by romping over the West Hill eleven, 30-0. The Missouri River boys are idle this week, but Wellington will fight for the bottom rung post with Ritenour. Ritenour's latest defeat came Friday when Kirkwood, which has been showing improvement each week, won 14-0.

Saturday Kirkwood will attempt to win its fourth straight game and thereby break Chamblade's streak of conquests, which has reached six straight. However, the Lyonsmen will have to go the limit to down the veteran Bulldogs.

Maplewood will battle Coach Pitt Green's Normandy High team Friday, and a close game is expected. In a non-league tilt, Webster should have little trouble in downing Clayton.

John Madden, David Harum Of Horse Racing, Dies as Result of a Heart Attack

By Leased Wire from New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—John E. Madden, the David Harum of racing and the leading American breeder of thoroughbred horses, died yesterday in Hotel Pennsylvania from a heart attack. He was 69 years old, with only a nurse in attendance. One of his sons was on the way to his bedside, but received the news on a train as it passed through Cincinnati.

"The wizard of the turf," as he was called, had been ailing six weeks, but refused flatly to go to a hospital, contending he was all right, and would be out "almost any day." He even would jump out of bed when friends called on him and go through sparring motions to prove that he had the strength of which he had been inordinately proud all his life.

His illness began with a heavy cold, which developed into light pneumonia. He apparently had recovered and, according to some of his friends, was talking of returning to Hamburg place, his breeding farm on the Winchester Pike, near Lexington, Ky., when a relapse came. He was 73 years old. He survived by two sons, Joseph and Edward Madden.

Madden was born in Bethlehem, Pa., in 1856, and from early boyhood turned to horses and made a fortune in the breeding and racing of trotters, pacers and runners. As a horse trader he was pre-eminent and soon earned the name of the David Harum of the sport. He built up the biggest and most pretentious breeding farm in the country, a wide stretch of 2300 acres of pastures and paddocks just outside Lexington, which he named "Hamburg place" after the city of the most famous horses he ever bred and raced.

Was Athlete and Boxer. As a youth he earned fame as an athlete both in foot racing and boxing. Later he turned to the driving and training of horses, and finally settled on the breeding, training and owning of thoroughbred runners. As a trainer he took rank with such masters as Jimmy Rowe and Sam Hildreth, two of whom have died since Aug. 2, Madden is the fourth man of racing prominence to die within three months; Mars Casady, the famous "star" trainer, was the first to die, followed by Sam Hildreth. Madden used to say that he founded his fortune of more than $1,000,000 by buying an old trotter named Robert McGregor with which he won $30,000 in purses. He used to say that he had founded his fortune of more than $1,000,000 by buying an old trotter named Robert McGregor with which he won $30,000 in purses.

He used to say: "Every horse I own is for sale at a price," and no man ever got better prices. He bred and sold many of the great horses of the American turf and the records show that he sent out more than 5000 winners from his own farm.

He was particularly proud of the fact that he bred no fewer than five Kentucky Derby winners—Sir Barton, Flying Ebony, Paul Jones, Old Rosebud and Zev. The last named was the distinction of being the biggest money winner of all.

CLEVELAND AND CENTRAL MEET IN FEATURE TILT

By Harold Tuthill

Interest in the City High School football double-header next Saturday will be centered in Cleveland's attempt to remain in the race. The Carondelet school meets Central in the second game. The leading Soldan eleven opposes Beaumont in the opening contest.

If Cleveland defeats Central this week and Beaumont the next it will have a chance to tie Soldan for the championship, presuming, of course, that Soldan wins its third straight league victory from Beaumont. Cleveland's victory over Indiana Saturday, enabled Art Phamer, Gopher halfback, to increase his margin in the Big Ten individual scoring race. His performance lifted his total to 49 points.

Russ Berghman, Northwestern's work-horse, jumped into second place by scoring the touchdown that subdued Illinois. He brought his total to 32 points, to pass Bill Glasgow of Iowa, who was idle. The leaders, including scoring in all games:

Tiger Regulars To Start Game Against Bears

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 4.—Missouri's attitude in preparation for the Washington U. game at St. Louis Saturday is that it is merely a practice game for more important encounters to come. Coach Gwynn Henry admits that the Bears might upset the dope bucket, but he doesn't think the likelihood of that is very great.

Early last week, Henry announced that he would start his second team against the Bears, but he has since reconsidered and will start his first-stringers. The first team, however, he said, isn't apt to stay in the game very long, because he intends to take no chances with injuries to stellar players in a game which he doesn't particularly care whether he wins or not.

Henry indicated that virtually every man on his squad would get a workout against the Bears. His attitude is not so much that the Washington crew is not a worthy foe, but that so far as he is concerned it is just an excellent chance to give some of the Tigers a week-end of comparative rest and give some of his reserves a chance to get into competition.

His attitude toward the Washington game is no new policy for Coach Henry, for he has always concentrated his efforts on winning conference games, and worried little about inter-conference struggles.

BILLIKENS' GAME WITH AGGIES TO BE DECIDED ON ARMISTICE DAY

By Glen McDonald

The St. Louis University football team's game with Oklahoma Aggies which had been originally scheduled for next Saturday has been switched to Nov. 11, Armistice day. The Billikens will go to Stillwater for the game and will probably run into the stiffest opposition they have encountered this year.

Coach Chlie Walsh, who returned from Stillwater last night, where he scouted the Aggies' victory over Tulsa University, stated that the Billikens' next opponents are "the best team he has seen this year." The Aggies are not a fast crew but they are heavy as football teams come. Their attack is concentrated on several sets of splinter plays. They are coached by Lynn Waldorf, former All-American guard from Syracuse University, and in Jack Baker, 200-pound full-back, they have a star who passes, kicks and runs equally well.

Have Won Four Out of Six. The Aggies' record so far consists of four victories and two defeats. They have scored a total of 94 points to 40 for their opponents. They defeated Northwestern State Teachers' College in the season's opener and then dropped an 18-0 decision to Drake University, which clinched the Missouri Valley Conference title last Saturday. The Aggies' third game was a 18-0 victory over Oklahoma City. Coach Chlie Walsh's Creighton Bluejays were the next victims of the Aggies, the Omaha team losing 32 to 13. West Virginia University came West and won from the Aggies by the slender margin of a field goal, 9 to 6. Tulsa U. lost 20 to 0 in last Saturday's game.

Syl McIntosh and Ford Brown, reserve ends, who played most of last Saturday's game with Coe College, are the only men who were injured, but are expected to be in shape by the end of this week.

The Billikens freshmen are working hard for their game with the Washington University yearlings at Francis Field, Wednesday night. There is a good deal of interest in Royal Blue camp and Billikens followers expect the charges of Coach "Peaches" Browning to give a good account of themselves. Browning will have a starting line that will average 184 pounds and a backfield that comes to the 170-pound average.

Stephens Is Real Star. At the ends the frosh will have "Red" Taylor, a 187-pounder, who is a clever pass receiver, and Whitey McGowan, who weighs 175 pounds. Two heavy men take care of the tackles, Bill O'Brien, a 195-pounder, playing left tackle and Harry Brodhead, weighing 170 pounds, plays the other. Brodhead won a Missouri U. numeral last fall. "Poodies" Podelwitz of South Bend, Ind., and Pete Ross of Port Arthur, Tex., play the guards. They are short, stocky boys, the former weighing 175 pounds and the latter tipping the scales at 190 pounds less. Ben Alexander, a 185-pounder from Los Angeles, Cal., is the regular center. He is one of the smartest defensive men on the St. Louis U. practice field.

In the backfield the Billikens yearlings have Jack Black at quarterback, Joe Stephens and Bud Schumacher at line halves and Ben Lapre at fullback. Stephens is the outstanding star of the freshmen backs. Weighing 170 pounds, he is a great passer and very fast. Other frosh who have starred in scrimmage against the varsity this year are Joe Kennedy and "Doo-dies" Rushing, halfbacks; and Joe Canada, a fullback, and Joe O'Connor and Owen McCarthy, line-men. Two freshmen regulars ended their 1929 football careers last Wednesday when they suffered broken ankles during a frosh-varsity scrimmage. They were Bud Osborne, an end, and Slim Philpot, a tackle.

PHARMER INCREASES HIS SCORING LEAD IN BIG TEN LOOP

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A touchdown and a successful place kick for the extra point, his contribution to Minnesota's victory over Indiana Saturday, enabled Art Phamer, Gopher halfback, to increase his margin in the Big Ten individual scoring race. His performance lifted his total to 49 points.

Three Washington Aces Suffered Injuries in Carnegie Tech Battle

By Henry L. Freund.

Francis Field will be the scene of great activity beginning after noon as the Washington University Bears begin a week of preparation for the invasion of the Missouri Tigers, Saturday, and freshmen start putting the finishing touches on their play.

Wednesday night's game against the St. Louis University freshmen was a satisfactory one. The Bears will begin their training with added confidence born of their splendid showing against the powerful Tech eleven last Saturday when a fighting Washington team held the Tartans even for almost half the game, only to be worn down and lose, 13-0, to the team which held Notre Dame to a single touchdown.

Missouri, traditional rival of the Bears, will provide worthy opposition as the outfit from Columbia has an exceptionally strong team according to Gale Bullman and Cecil Drake, Washington coaches, who have scouted the Tigers in their last two games.

Freshman Coach Anton Stankowski and assistant, J. J. Mank, of Missouri, who watched the Bears' dogged battle against the Tech eleven expressed themselves after the game as greatly surprised at the strength of the Washington team. John Hunn, backfield coach at Kansas, also witnessed the Carnegie game from the press box. Kansas will be the third of the November rivals for Washington.

Teams Scrimmage Today. It is likely that the second team and the freshmen will engage in a lengthy scrimmage this afternoon. The freshmen need the workout in preparation for the St. Louis U. game, the varsity regulars will also be in need of actual combat as Dr. Sharpe made but two substitutions during the Carnegie game. As going in for Eavenden and Watson for Senn. The first team will have a light workout as many of the regulars were suffering from aches and pains after the game. Senn suffered a wrenched leg; Springer was severely bruised and grazed; his weak ankle and Hornsby suffered an injury to his nose early in the contest. All the regulars are expected to be in condition Saturday.

Especially pleasing in the Saturday game was the excellent playing of the Washington line, which repelled repeated line thrusts of the clever Carnegie backs. Armontrout alone being successful in his line plays. The work of the two Washington tackles was the best exhibition they have given all year. Both Glazer and Paris are playing their third year of football. Glazer was an end his first year at Washington, but last season he alternated

WASHINGTON ACADEMY OF FOOTBALL INJURIES IN TECH BATTLE

By Henry L. Freund.

It will be the scene of great activity beginning tomorrow when the Washington University Bears begin a week of football against the Missouri Tigers, Saturday, and the closing touches on their play against the St. Louis University freshmen.

Paul Paris played fine football last year and is even better this season. He is one of the most members of the forward line and is constantly following the ball. His recovery of two Carnegie footballs attests to his ability.

The playing of Bert Springer end was satisfactory. Ends have been at a premium all season. Washington and are especially now, as Kingsley Wientge and Gus Putney have both hung up the football for the season. Wientge was making a fine showing when he was badly injured and responded to treatment. In order to be in condition for the basketball season it was deemed advisable for Wientge to give up football and give his shoulder an opportunity to heal. Putney won a freshman letter at Yale seven years ago and ended in the Washington freshmen backfield.

Today, second team will engage in this afternoon. The varsity for the St. Louis team will play in the need of Sharpe made during the going in for Sen. The light weight regulars were and Fains suffered a severe injury early in the season. Saturday in the excellent playing line, which re- trusts of the line. The two Wash- he best exhibit all year. SEVEN OF 36 MUNY SOCCER TEAMS REMAIN UNBEATEN AND UNTIED

MAJESTICS AND SCHENBERGS TO MEET NEXT WEEK IN FEATURE GAME

Seven of the 36 participating for honors in the various divisions of the Municipal Soccer League remained undefeated and untied, following the second round of contests played yesterday in the public parks. The Majestics, last season the South Side, winners of the championship, showed they will again be factors in the title struggle by romping over the German Sports Club, 5 goals to 0.

The Majestics, however, will face a real test next Sunday when they tackle the Schenbergs in the feature game in the Carondelet No. 1 group. The Schenbergs, like the Majestics, have won two straight and have plenty of experienced players in the battle front. The game Sunday will be the first meeting of the season between the two eleven.

Other teams which have clean records for the years are the Clarks, Fairground No. 2; Roma Club, Fairground No. 4; Cook A. C., at Sherman Park; Watsons, Carondelet No. 2, and St. Matthews in the Junior group.

The Klusters, one of the eleven favored to win the city championship this season, were handed a surprise yesterday, when the team was held to a 1-to-1 tie by the Angelicas in the feature battle in Fairground No. 2. The Klusters made up mainly of former professional players, found the defense of the Angelicas, one-time Municipal champions, too strong to penetrate for more than one goal.

Another surprise came in the Fairground No. 3 division, when the Longos, reinforced by three former professional players could do no better than tie the Bauers, 1-1. The ex-pros who battled with the Longos for the first time were Neil McCarthy and Tommy White, as fullbacks; and Quinn at center half. Doyle scored for the Longos to equalize a point counted earlier by the Bauers.

HOCKEY OFFICIAL ASKS ARENA TO DRAW CONTRACT

By W. J. McGoogan

William Grant of Kansas City, secretary-treasurer of the American Hockey Association, and Ben Brinkman, president of the National Exhibition Co., which owns the Arena, held a conference here this morning, at which plans were discussed for installing ice-making machinery at the Arena for holding hockey games there.

While no agreement was reached, the two sides got close enough for Grant to ask Brinkman to have a contract drawn up and to submit it to him immediately. Both Grant and Brinkman said everything looked favorable for an arrangement to transfer the hockey games from the Winter Garden to the new building.

The second session of hockey for St. Louis will open late this month at the Garden. The schedule runs until April, and the installation of ice-making machinery at the Arena could not be completed before January. Grant believes Jan. 1 would be the earliest possible date for a transfer to the Arena, and thinks Jan. 15 a more accurate guess.

Cost of equipping the Arena is estimated at $100,000. Engineers already have visited the building to figure the needs.

Grant will return to Kansas City tonight, and it probably will be a few days before he sees the proposed contract for use of the Arena.

New Coach of Flyers Arrives, Play-ers Due Soon

Clarence Jamieson, new coach of the St. Louis Flyers, arrived today for an inspection of the garden and as an advance guard of the Flyers players who are due here in the next few days for practice.

Jamieson, the new coach, has been in hockey 22 years and has been given the task of assembling a team which will make St. Louis a real contender in the winter competition.

Several new faces will be seen in the Flyers' line-up. Jamieson has secured the services of a new goal in Kearny, who played with the Fort Williams, Ont. team last season and will make a choice of one of the former Tulsa players—Morgan, a defense man, and Johnson and Moffett, forwards.

Players of last year's St. Louis team who have been ordered to report are Iver Anderson, Curley Heider, Roy Powley, Vito Lapointe, Chas. Boileau, Fred Metcalf, Phil Acaster, Billy Hill, Harry Cameron and Larry Goyer.

The remodeling plans for the garden include raising the pitch of the balcony from six to 14 inches and the clearing of the ice of bleacher seats. The only ice seats will be boxes on the west and north ends. These seats are to be 14 feet with balcony space ranging from 75 cents to $1.50.

The Flyers are scheduled to open the season at Tulsa, Nov. 15.

JOHN B. DEMPSEY DIES; 40 YEARS A LAWYER

Former Member of Legislature Succumbs to Heart Disease—Funeral Wednesday.

John B. Dempsey, 63 years old, an attorney with offices in the International Life Building and a former State legislator and Democratic politician, died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 4153 Castleman avenue. He had been ill for about eight months.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday to St. Margaret's Church. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Dempsey began to practice law here about 40 years ago. He prepared for admission to the bar in his spare time while working as a carpenter in the building trades union. In 1889 he was elected to the legislature and served two terms.

The Dempsey family has lived at the Castleman avenue home for 30 years, and Mr. Dempsey was known to the children for blocks around as "Uncle Jack." He always could be depended upon to bring candy home with him each evening and distribute it among them as he walked up the street to his home. He also used to take 100 or more children to a neighborhood movie theater several times a year.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Virginia Dempsey, and a daughter, Miss Claire Dempsey.

PAIR KILLED AFTER VISITING INJURED DAUGHTER IN HOSPITAL

Harry V. Hurst and Wife Struck by Auto in Kansas City; Driver Escapes.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Hurst left St. Mary's Hospital here last night, happy that their daughter, who was struck by a street car, was improving. A minute later, just as they gained a safety zone to board a street car for home, a speeding motor car struck and fatally injured both.

Mrs. Hurst was dead when taken back into the hospital. Her husband, a painter, died several hours later. The only witness to the accident was unable to give police a description of the motor car, which sped on after the accident.

The two had been visiting their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hurst, 17 years old, whose left leg was amputated last March after she was struck by a street car. Since then she had been in a serious condition, but last night physicians told the parents her wounds were beginning to heal. Two other children, Espanola, 15, and Mary Josephine, 9, survive.

PROTESTS AGAINST NAMING SCHOOL FOR PETER HERZOG

Residents of North Pointe Say It Is Meaningless to Them; He Taught for 50 Years.

Residents of the new North Pointe region in Northwestern St. Louis have complained to school officials about the intention of the Board of Education to name a new school in that district, at Mimika and Astra avenues, in honor of the late Peter Herzog.

These people, who have moved in from other neighborhoods, say the name means nothing to them. Mr. Herzog was an educator here who died after more than 50 years' service as a grade school principal. For many years he was at the Blair School, 2707 Bauschenbach avenue. The board voted last July to name one of its next two schools the Peter Herzog and in September it attached this name to the one planned for North Pointe.

The complaint has not come before the board or the Superintendent of Instruction officially.

When Food Won't Digest Perhaps you need MILK OF MAGNESIA

WHAT is usually known as "indigestion" is, in most cases, a sign of excess acid in the system. The alkaline balance of your system is upset. And there is no use neglecting it when it is so easily corrected. Nature has given us the way to avoid gastric disorders caused by excessive acid. Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

It is sometimes possible to diet your way out of the difficulty. But it takes time even to see whether you can or not. Phillips Milk of Magnesia counteracts the excess acid in a few moments; it brings relief at once. Heartburn stops in a hurry. That unpleasant sense of fullness, those pangs of so-called "indigestion," simply vanish with the use of magnesia. Make no mistake, however, as to the best form of magnesia! Authorities that you cannot question have pronounced Phillips Milk of Magnesia the most perfect formula. Its form is the most effective, in the opinion of the U. S. Dispensary. A delightful product to take. It neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It is alkaline, its action is thorough, and you can't think of anything more soothing to an ailing stomach. Nor is anything half so good, yet harmless to a child of tender age. This perfect anti-acid has also gentle laxative properties; it cleanses and sweetens the entire digestive tract without any of the disturbance common to strong cathartics.

There is only one form of milk of magnesia; it's a liquid, and comes in a bottle. But it takes more than a blue bottle to make Phillips Milk of Magnesia—so get the genuine with Phillips on the wrapper!

When Food Won't Digest Perhaps you need MILK OF MAGNESIA

WHAT is usually known as "indigestion" is, in most cases, a sign of excess acid in the system. The alkaline balance of your system is upset. And there is no use neglecting it when it is so easily corrected. Nature has given us the way to avoid gastric disorders caused by excessive acid. Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

It is sometimes possible to diet your way out of the difficulty. But it takes time even to see whether you can or not. Phillips Milk of Magnesia counteracts the excess acid in a few moments; it brings relief at once. Heartburn stops in a hurry. That unpleasant sense of fullness, those pangs of so-called "indigestion," simply vanish with the use of magnesia. Make no mistake, however, as to the best form of magnesia! Authorities that you cannot question have pronounced Phillips Milk of Magnesia the most perfect formula. Its form is the most effective, in the opinion of the U. S. Dispensary. A delightful product to take. It neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It is alkaline, its action is thorough, and you can't think of anything more soothing to an ailing stomach. Nor is anything half so good, yet harmless to a child of tender age. This perfect anti-acid has also gentle laxative properties; it cleanses and sweetens the entire digestive tract without any of the disturbance common to strong cathartics.

There is only one form of milk of magnesia; it's a liquid, and comes in a bottle. But it takes more than a blue bottle to make Phillips Milk of Magnesia—so get the genuine with Phillips on the wrapper!

SEASONABLE DESSERTS

As the most beneficial part of an apple or carrot is in the peeling, try grating them with the peeling left on. This can be added to salad, and when both of these are mixed with mashed bananas, to disguise the flavor, it makes a dainty and most palatable dessert for children. Top with whipped cream.

Steamed Apple Pudding.
Make a batter of one tablespoon of butter, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup of cold water, one and one-quarter cups of flour, one teaspoon baking powder. Slice apples and place in bottom of greased mold, pour batter over and steam three-quarters of an hour. Serve hot with cream.

Prune Betty.
Butter a baking dish. Cover bottom and sides with bread crumbs add a layer of prunes, a layer of marmalade and a layer of crumbs. Continue until all are used, having last layer crumbs. Break the butter into bits and sprinkle over top. Pour hot prune juice over all, bake in medium hot oven about 15 minutes.

Peach Surprise.
For an individual serving, place one canned peach half in a round meringue shell large enough to hold it. Fill the hollow of peach with ice cream and pile on as much more as the peach will hold. Place another meringue shell on top of the cream, pressing it down slightly. Note: The meringue cases may be made at home or purchased in pairs very reasonably.

Glorified Vanilla Wafers.
A simple cake to serve with an iced beverage or cup of tea is made by covering vanilla wafers with a confectioner's sugar icing and sprinkling with tiny spiced candies which come in assorted colors.

SAVORY STEWS IDEAL FOR FALL DINNERS

When Properly Prepared They Are Appetizing, Palatable and Delicious.

Stewing, when the term is applied to meat, is really a combination of frying and boiling.

The meat should be cut in small, even sized pieces, rolled in flour that is seasoned with salt and pepper, and then browned in a saucepan in a small amount of hot fat.

When the meat is well browned, cold water is added to just cover it, the desired vegetables or seasonings also added, the pan covered, and the mixture boiled very slowly until the meat is tender.

When made in this way, a stew has a rich flavor that cannot be developed in any other way. It is also rich in color.

Beef Stew.
Take two pounds of beef off the top round, two tablespoons fat (lard, butter or oil), six small onions, five tablespoons flour, three medium-sized tomatoes, two tablespoons chopped parsley, three cups water, one and one-half cups sliced carrots, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one and one-half teaspoon salt and an additional one-third cup of water for the gravy.

Slice onion and cook slowly in fat five minutes. Cut beef in uniform pieces. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of the flour and a little salt and pepper. Brown meat, turning often. Add tomatoes, parsley and water and cook slowly about one hour. Add onions and carrots, salt, pepper and cayenne and cook one hour longer. Thicken gravy with three tablespoons flour and one-third cup water mixed to a smooth paste and bring to the boiling point. Serve hot.

Irish Stew.
Irish stew is made with lamb. For a savory stew use three pounds of lamb from the forequarter; one cup carrots, cut in cubes; one cup turnips, cut in cubes; three cups potatoes, cut in cubes; one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one onion sliced.

Wipe meat with a clean, damp cloth and cut in two inch square pieces. Put in kettle, cover with boiling water and cook slowly for one and one-half hours or until tender. Add carrots, turnips, onion, salt, pepper and cook for 30 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 15 minutes longer. Thicken with a little flour mixed of a paste with cold water.

Onion and Bean Stew.
One cup sugar, three-fourths cup butter, two eggs (well beaten), one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon baking powder, two cups flour (use a little more if needed), two cups oatmeal, one-half cup milk, one cup nuts, one-half cup sorghum, one-half cup jam. Add jam last, stirring little as possible, drop in buttered pans.

Maple Farina.
Beat four eggs and slowly add one cup hot maple syrup. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly, cool, and add one pint cream beaten until stiff. Turn into tray and let freeze three or four hours.

TASTY APPLE DISHES FOR APPLE WEEK

Published as an Evidence That This Favorite Vegetable Is Versatile.

The apple is the most important fruit of the temperate zone. No small part of its importance as a commercial crop is due to the fact that it lends itself to such a great variety of uses.

It is not only a most wholesome and wholesome dessert fruit but it also lends itself to a diversity of culinary uses, and in addition, there is no fruit juice which, when properly handled, is more wholesome, or more pleasing than apple juice or cider.

In the list of apples there are several thousand names, and among them, may be found an apple for every use. The producers of apples have developed the industry so as to meet the exacting requirements of a year-round trade and, as far as the United States is concerned, the apple should be the fruit of the month.

Apple Week which we are now celebrating should help remind housewives to include this wholesome fruit in the family dietary as often as possible. These several recipes for cooked apple dishes are a contribution to Apple Week.

Apple Pie.

Five or six apples, one cup sugar, one-third cup water, one teaspoon extract lemon. Peel, quarter and core apples, put in stew pan with sugar and water. When tender, remove. When cold, add extract and fill pie plate, lined with paste. Wet the edges, cover with paste rolled out thin, and wash with milk. Bake in steady moderate oven 20 minutes.

Cider Apple Sauce.

Boil down two quarts of sweet cider to one quart. Pare, quarter and core sound sweet apples. Put into the cider as many as the cider will cover. Boil slowly until a dark red and the cider is nearly absorbed. Do not stir, as that will break the apples.

Baked Apples With Raisins.

Core six nice apples. Fill with seedless raisins and dust with cinnamon. Prick peel of apples with fork. Line pan with one tablespoon flour, one cup sugar, one and one-half tablespoons butter rubbed up. Place apples in pan, add one-half cup water and bake slowly.

Apple Day Salad.

Six banana apples, one cup celery, one-half cup shelled pecans, one cup mayonnaise, two cups apples minced. Cut off tops of apples. Remove inside with a spoon. Mix together the minced apples, celery, pecans and mayonnaise. Fill the apple shells with this and serve with one teaspoon of mayonnaise on top of each apple. Placing the apple on a bed of shredded lettuce improves the appearance.

Apple Sandwiches.

Cut bread thin. Grate one cup of apples, mix with one-half cup chopped walnuts. Cut bread thin and spread this apple mixture between, wrapping in oil paper to keep them moist.

Apple Cobbler.

Line pan with two tablespoons flour and one cup sugar, mixed. Put in six apples, cut in small pieces, dot with butter, and sprinkle in cinnamon. Add two tablespoons water, cover with the following crust, four tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, one tablespoon shortening. Mix lightly. Add two tablespoons ice water. Turn on board very lightly. Bake in medium oven and serve with vanilla sauce.

Apple Muffins.

One pint of flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter cup of butter, half a cup of sugar, one egg, one cup of milk, one cup thinly sliced apples. Bake in muffin pans, in quick oven.

THIS CURRIED YEAL IS A HIGHLY SEASONED DISH

Strong Flavors, Such as Curry, Have Become Popular for Winter Cooking.

Cut enough cooked veal in pieces to make three cupsful. Melt three tablespoons butter or shortening in a saucepan, add one small minced onion and two tablespoons finely cut celery, and cook slowly for five minutes. Add three tablespoons flour and one tablespoon curry powder and stir until well blended. Then add gradually three cups water, meat stock, or gravy and water mixed. Cook until thickened, add the meat and simmer for 20 minutes.

Season to taste with salt and serve with plenty of flaky boiled rice. To make the dish especially appetizing pass with the curry shredded green pepper that has been scalded in boiling water, shredded coconut browned in a slow oven, crisp, minced bacon, chutney and chopped hard-boiled egg. These are arranged in small dishes and passed as seasonings.

Worth Remembering.

If you will toast your stale bread, grind it and keep it in a jar with a cloth tied over the top, it will always be ready for easily prepared desserts.

FOR YOUR BRIDGE PARTY

Quickly Prepared Refreshments Are Most Satisfactory.

Try an angel food ice cream sandwich at your next bridge party if you wish to serve a luscious sweet.

Put two slices of angel food cake together with a thick slice of layer of vanilla ice cream.

Sprinkle the ice cream with chopped pecan nuts or salted almonds and pour a butter-sauce or chocolate or honey sauce over it.

Beef Hash.

Chop cold roast beef, or steak, and add an equal amount of chopped cold cooked potatoes. Season with salt, pepper, onion juice and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Moisten with a small amount of water. Melt a little fat in a frying pan, add meat mixture and spread evenly. Cover and fry slowly until a delicate brown on the bottom. Fold over like an omelet and turn out on a hot platter and garnish with parsley. Serve with tomato sauce if desired.

Stay Proud of Her

WHAT mother does not want her healthy, rosy-cheeked babies to grow into robust, active little boys and girls? And then keep right on developing both mentally and physically into sturdy, alert men and women?

The Part Food Plays

During their growing years... when you have the great responsibility of doing just the right things for them... you cannot be too critical about the food you give them to eat.

You undoubtedly know that their bodies demand certain things. They need vitamins for life and growth... proteins to build firm, solid flesh... calcium and phosphorus for strong bones and teeth... iron to give them red blood and rosy cheeks... and carbohydrates to supply them with energy.

Nature put all these essential food elements in whole wheat as in no other grain.

Mothers everywhere give their children whole wheat in two most delicious forms... Ralston, the quick-cooking whole wheat cereal and Ralston Wheat Flakes.

Whole Wheat at Its Best

Ralston cereal contains all the vital elements... all the natural, appetite-awakening goodness of sun-ripened whole wheat. Ralston Wheat Flakes is the same golden whole wheat flaked and toasted. Thick, crisp flakes and... oh, so good!

Buy a package of each from your grocer. Start fortifying your children for the years to come.

Pork sausage is delicious when baked in biscuit dough. Roll the plain biscuit dough to one-fourth inch thickness. Shape it with a cutter, fold in the pork sausage and pinch the edges together.

Place in rows in baking pan with the folded edge of one biscuit against the folded edge of the other biscuit. Brush with milk or slightly beaten egg white before baking. Bake 15 or 20 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees F.). Serve piping hot.

PEACH TARTS, FLOWER DESIGN

Line small tins with pie paste and prick bottom with a fork. Put a tablespoon of dry rice into each and bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

Turn the paste from the tins and the rice from the nests. Brush the edge of each tart with white of egg, then roll it in chopped pistachio nuts.

Set a tablespoon of cream in bottom of each tart, then place four halves of preserved peaches in the cream, as a lining to the sides of the pastry, one overlapping another.

Cut preserved green pears in quarters down nearly to the stem end; remove the stone, and fold the ends of the sections in towards the center.

Set one of these inside the peaches in each tart; set a cherry in the center of the plum.

REGULAR MEALS MAKE FOR BETTER HEALTH

Old Advice of "Three Square Meals a Day," Still Holds Good.

The small nephew was busily engaged in stalking Indians in the back yard, and had just reached the point where Chief Thunder-Face was about to fall a victim to his bow and arrow, when he was summoned in to lunch.

This was a real calamity, but apparently one he had met before, judging from his "Aw, Mummy, why do you always get lunch ready just at the most 'tiring' times? Can't I wait? I'd much rather play Indians than eat now." We let him kill his man, then compromised with a meal that was eaten in a log-cabin (an imaginary one) on the back porch.

But the incident brought up the question of regular meals and the necessity for them. It really would be so much easier, in many instances, to eat when we were hungry, rather than at regular intervals. Why not?

Well, it is the first place, it is hardly playing fair with your stomach! Think of the feelings of that organ, when, having been busily occupied with the digestion of one meal and having perhaps just reached the last stages of the process, it has to immediately start in on the first steps of the next one! That is one phase of the question.

Another is in the matter of the quantity of food eaten. When meals are consumed in a hit-or-miss fashion, there is small opportunity for the eater of these meals to pay attention to the amount of food he eats in the day. Eating becomes a habit of "matching a bite" rather than a period of social relaxation, or even plain solitary comfort.

In such cases one often falls into another habit—that of being "nervously hungry," that is, so busy with thoughts of other interests that the act of eating becomes a very secondary one, and food is crowded in with little or no thought for dietary requirements or needs. Harm always results as the victim suffers from "indigestion." Why shouldn't he?

Then again, regularity in meals makes automatically for regularity in other activities of daily living. Or in other words it helps in the planning of a sane, well balanced day.

The brand of living we indulge in today sometimes makes regularity in anything but mad dashing from one place to another a hard thing to achieve.

However, if we do not begin to think of these things, regularity in meal times we practically always suffer and end up at a doctor's office, where we get the advice in the form of a prescription and pay dearly for it. The simplest things are often the most valuable, and this is no exception to the rule.

If you would be physically fit to meet the strenuous demands of 1931 living so that you make every effort to have your meals at regular times, that you eat three square meals a day, and that these meals be made up of the foods that meet the growth and maintenance demands of the body—namely, an abundance of vegetables, fruits, eggs, milk, which are the protective foods; meat, fish, and eggs which build body tissue and muscle; cereals and sugars and fats for energy. In other words a varied, balanced diet.

BREAD RIGHTFULLY CALLED THE "STAFF OF LIFE"

Peoples of All Times Have Used Bread as Their Main Food.

In these days of so many different diets, we are apt to forget that there was a time when bread was called the staff of life.

Nutritionally, it is still one of our most important foods. Whether we eat white, rye, wholewheat or any of the other kinds probably makes no very great difference, so long as we make it part of our regular daily diet.

About half of every loaf of bread is made up of starches and sugars which are easily digested by the body and supply the heat and energy needed in everyday living.

In addition, good bread contains milk, which supplies protein, or muscle building food.

Wheat or rye or corn, or whatever grain you use in your bread—and the largest percentage use wheat—all cereal grains, and should have a definite place in every family's meal plan.

TRY THIS SAVORY SAUCE

This is especially good with salmon timbales or loaf, or with hard-boiled eggs.

Melt two tablespoons butter and add three tablespoons flour. Stir until blended, and then gradually add one and one-half cups hot water, stirring constantly.

When thickened and smooth add one teaspoon grated onion, two tablespoons tomato catsup, one teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper to season. Stir to mix and serve very hot.

PLANS FOR $30,000,000 IMPROVEMENT OF ST. LOUIS WATER FRONT

The City Plan Commission has published a $30,000,000 outline for improvement of the northern and southern river fronts. The upper picture is the commission's sketch of the southern development, with a scenic drive extending from Broadway and Lemay avenue on the north to Bellefontaine Park on the south, a 37-acre bluff park at the north, a yacht harbor near the Workhouse and a drive running south from Bellefontaine Park, by way of Minnesota avenue in the city, to Jefferson Barracks. The lower sketch shows how the commission would change the course of the Mississippi to add five square miles of territory to the northern part of the city, utilizing the old channel for a yacht basin and swimming and boating lagoons. Part of the new land would be used for an airport and the rest for a park larger than Forest Park. It would be reached by connections to the proposed Third street double-deck highway and to other arteries.

THE BISHOP MURDER CASE

A PHILO VANCE DETECTIVE STORY

By S. S. Van Dine

CHAPTER 11.

HALF an hour later we were seated with the professor and Arneson in the dining library. "We've come on a somewhat unusual errand," explained Vance; "but it may have a vital bearing on our investigation." He took out his wallet and unfolded a sheet of paper. "Here's a document, Mr. Arneson. I wish you'd glance over it. It's a copy of the official score-sheet of the chess game between Pardee and Rubinstein. Very interesting. I've toyed with it a bit, but I'd like your expert analysis of it. The first part of the game is usual enough, but the play after the adjournment rather appeals to me."

Arneson took the paper and studied it with cynical amusement. "Aha! The ingenious record of Pardee's Waterloo," he said. "What's the meaning of this, Markham?" asked Prof. Dillard contemptuously. "Do you hope to run a murderer to earth by dilly-dallying over a chess game?"

"Mr. Vance hoped something could be learned from it."

"Fiddlesticks!" The professor poured himself another glass of port and, opening a book, ignored us completely.

Arneson was absorbed in the notations of the chess score.

"Something a bit queer here," he muttered. "The time's asked. Let's see. . . . The score-sheet shows that, up to the time of adjournment, White—that is, Pardee—had played one hour and 45 minutes, and Black or Rubinstein, 55 minutes and 45 minutes. So far, so good. Thirty moves. Quite in order. But the time at the end of the game, when Pardee resigned, totals two hours and 30 minutes for White and three hours and 32 minutes for Black—which means that, during the second session of the game, White consumed only 45 minutes, whereas Black used up one hour and 34 minutes."

Vance nodded.

"Exactly. There were two hours and 19 minutes of play beginning at 11 p. m., which carried the game to 1:19 a. m. And Rubinstein's moves during that time took 49 minutes longer than Pardee's. Can you make out what happened?"

Arneson pursed his lips and quipped at the notations.

"It's not clear. I'd need time."

"Suppose," Vance suggested, "we set up the game in the adjourned position and play it through. I'd like your opinion on the tactics."

Arneson rose jerkily and went to the little chess table in the corner. "Good idea," he said. "Let's see now. . . . Oh! A black bishop is missing. Then do I get it back by the way?"

Vance a plaintive leer. "Never mind. We don't need it here. One black bishop was swapped." And he proceeded to position the men to accord with the position of the game at the time of adjournment. Then he sat down and studied the set-up.

"It doesn't strike me as a particularly unfavorable position for Pardee," ventured Vance.

"Me either. Can't see why he lost the game. Looks drawish to me." After a moment Arneson referred to the score sheet. "We'll run through the play and find out where the trouble lay." He made half a dozen moves; then, after several minutes' study, gave a grunt. "Ha! This is rather deep stuff of Rubinstein's. Amazing combination he began working up here. Subtle, by God! As I know Rubinstein, it took him a long time to figure it out. Slow, plodding chap."

"It's possible, isn't it," suggested Vance, "that the working out of that combination explains the discrepancy in time between Black and White?"

"Oh, undoubtedly. Rubinstein must have been in good form not to have made the discrepancy greater. Planning the combination took him all of 45 minutes—or I'm a dunder."

"At what hour, would you say," asked Vance carelessly, "did Rubinstein use up that 45 minutes?"

"Well, let's see. The play began at eleven; six moves before the combination started. . . . Oh, say, somewhere between half past eleven and half past twelve. . . . Yes, just about. Thirty moves before the adjournment; six moves beginning at eleven—that makes thirty-six; then on the forty-fourth move Rubinstein moved his pawn to Bishop—I check, and Pardee resigned. . . . Yes—the working out of the combination was between eleven-thirty and twelve-thirty."

Vance regarded the men on the board, which were now in the position they had occupied at the time of Pardee's resignation.

"Out of curiosity," he said suddenly, "I played the game through to the checkmate the other night. I say, Mr. Arneson; would you mind doing the same, I could bear to hear your comment on it."

Arneson studied the position closely for a few minutes. Then he turned his head slowly and lifted his eyes to Vance. A sardonic grin overspread his face.

"I grasp the point, God! What a situation! Five moves for Black to win through. And an almost unheard-of finale in chess. Can't recall a similar instance. The last move would be Bishop to Knight—7, mating. In other words, Pardee was beaten by the black bishop! Incredible!"

Professor Dillard put down his book.

"What's this?" he exclaimed, joining us at the chess table. "Pardee was defeated by the bishop?"

He gave Vance a shrewd, admiring look. "You evidently had good reason, sir, for investigating that chess game. Pray overlook an old man's temper." He stood gazing down at the board with a sad, puzzled expression.

Markham was frowning with deep perplexity.

"You say it's unusual for a bishop alone to mate?" he asked Arneson.

"Never happens—almost unique situation. And that it should happen to Pardee of all people! Incomprehensible!" He gave a short ironic laugh, inclining his head to Vance.

"The bishop has been Pardee's bete noir for 20 years—it's ruined his life. Poor beggar! The black bishop is the symbol of his sorrow. Gato, by God! It's the one chessman that defeated the Pardee gambit. Bishop-to-knight—5 always broke up his calculations—disqualified his pet theory—made a hissing and a mocking of his life's work. And now, with a chance to break even with the great Rubinstein, the bishop crops up again and drives him back into obscurity."

A FEW minutes later we took our departure and walked to West End avenue, where we hailed a taxicab.

"Vance," commented Markham as we rode downtown, "that Pardee went white the other afternoon when you mentioned the black bishop's being at large at midnight. He probably thought you were deliberately insulting him—throwing his life's failure in his face."

"Perhaps. . . . Vance gazed dreamily out into the gathering shadows. "Dashed queer about the bishop being his incubus all these years. Such recurring discouragements affect the strongest minds sometimes; create a desire for revenge on the world with the cause of one's failure exalted to an Astartean symbol."

"It's difficult to picture Pardee in a vindictive role," objected Markham. "Then, after a moment, he said: 'What was your point about the discrepancy in time between Pardee's and Rubinstein's playing? Suppose Rubinstein did take 45 minutes or so to work out his combination. The game wasn't over until after one. I don't see that your visit to Arneson put us ahead in any way.'"

"That's because you're unacquainted with the habits of chess players. In a chess game of that kind no player sits at the table all the time his opponent is figuring out moves. He waits about, stretches his muscles, takes the air, ogles the ladies, imbibes ice water, and even indulges in food. At the Manhattan Square Masters tournament last year there were four tables, and it was a common sight to see as many as three empty chairs at one time. Pardee's a nervous type. He wouldn't sit through Rubinstein's protracted mental speculations."

Vance lighted a cigarette slowly. "Markham, Arneson's analysis of that game reveals the fact that Pardee had three-quarters of an hour to himself around midnight."

Modified Day Wear.

Numerous daytime models, while rather simple as to line and doubtless intended for street wear, are designed with long trailing ends, skirts that dip to exaggerated lengths at sides, back or front. These extremes of the mode are only for formal costumes hence the wise student of fashion will ignore them for daytime and select a dress with a straighter line. Dipping points of skirts beneath cost hemlines the street use look more awkward than not.

WINTER DOUBTS

SOMETIMES a doubt creeps in with cruel thrust:

"See, where June's smile lured bloom and wings. Now all is dust."

"Joy passes as the Summer dies. And in its stead. Leaves only barren memories Of bright hours fled."

Sometimes a doubt creeps in to bring A dismal train; But leafless branches whisper: "Spring Comes soon again."

"With patience, shivering, we wait. Through chill and gloom. To hear brave robin greet his mate With April's bloom."

Thousand-Island Dressing.

Plain hearts of lettuce and this dressing make a delightful salad for the course dinner. To 1 hard-boiled egg rubbed through a sieve add 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 1 tablespoon Chili sauce, 1 finely chopped beet, ¼ cup mayonnaise dressing and 4 tablespoons whipped cream. Serve very cold.

Hand Lotion for the Winter

A hand lotion is an absolute necessity in winter if the housewife wants to keep her hands soft and in good condition. Sheets Are Longer, Cotton Survey Shows SHEETS are longer, or at any rate, the longer types are making big gains over the 90-inch size that was almost universal up to five years ago.

Cotton manufacturers conclude that either greater attention is being paid to comfort—or else that Americans are becoming a taller race.

A great cotton mill at Salem, Mass., reports that the longer sizes comprise about two-thirds of its entire output as compared with about one-third in 1921.

The manufacturers believe that women are demanding the long sheets because of the greater practicality and because of the popularity of the box bed spring, which makes the more lengthy sheets highly desirable.

This fox's fur is soft and sleek. And he is really just a freak. His little brothers all are red. But he is silv'ry black, instead.

His fur is used to make fur collars For which folks pay two thousand dollars. But still in spite of any name, He is a red fox just the same.

We find that arctic foxes, too, Are sometimes white and sometimes blue. The reason has been sought in vain, So please don't ask me to explain!

Since silver foxes are so rare A farmer often buys a pair And raises fox cubs in his pens Instead of cows or pigs or hens!

Daily Story FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE FIRST ANIMALS

"Come along! Come along! Little Black Clock," cried the hermit.

Little Black Clock, who was going to have glorious adventures now. See! I've turned the clock back ever and ever so far—back to the time when things were beginning in this old world."

The Little Black Clock, who had been given the magic which made it possible for him to turn the clock way back or way forward, was very glad to have John and Peggy to share his adventures.

"We're going to see some strange sights this evening," he continued. Suddenly the whole world seemed changed and the world seemed as if it were a new one.

"Flip-flop, flip-flop, flip-flop," came the sounds again.

"Look!" shouted the Little Black Clock. "The very first animals!"

"What little squirming things! Wouldn't you call them animals?" John asked.

"They're the first of all—just not beautiful—but still they're very first!"

And John and Peggy saw creatures that looked like lizards.

THE FIRST ANIMALS

"Come along! Come along! Hurry! Hurry!" cried the Little Black Clock. "We're going to have glorious adventures now. See! I've turned the time back ever and ever so far—almost to the time when things were beginning in this old world."

The Little Black Clock, who had been given the magic which made it possible for him to turn the time way, way back or way, way forward, had invited John and Peggy to share his adventures.

"We're going to see some strange sights this evening," he continued. Suddenly the whole scene changed and the world seemed to be strange and empty and without any familiar landmarks.

"Flip-flop, flip-flop, flip-flop," came some queer sounds.

"What in the world are we going to see?" John asked.

"I don't think this place is a bit pretty," Peggy said.

"It hasn't had a chance to do much with itself as yet," the Little Black Clock said. "Even the world had to get settled. You know, when people move they are all upset at first and nothing looks very lovely, but in time they get it all straightened out."

"It was the same with the world. It had to get settled before it really could be at home to people. It's not ready for people now."

"Flip-flop, flip-flop, flip-flop," came the sounds again.

"Look!" shouted the Little Black Clock. "The very first animals!"

"What little squirming things! I wouldn't call them animals," John said.

"They're the first of all—may not be beautiful—but still they're the very first."

And John and Peggy saw creatures that looked like lizards.

There Have Been Many Changes in the Mode for This Winter

This ensemble that is ideal for golf has a skirt of red, white and gray mixed tweed. The blouse is of beige crepe de chine and the inevitable cardigan is of red jersey.

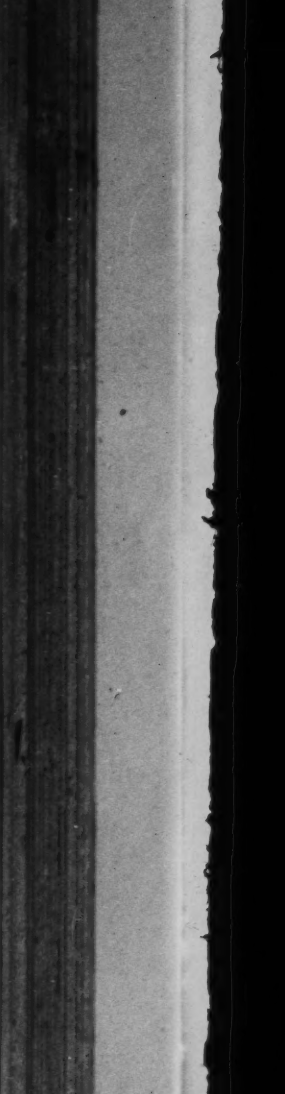

This evening gown of white satin is lightly enhanced by delicate embroidery that follows the supple and flowing line of the body.

This red satin gown is the most popular in the collection. Its drapery is held in place by two plaques of diamond embroidery, and this embroidery is repeated on the shoulder.

This black dinner gown has perfect distinction and its lines give us an excellent idea of what the house of Worth is doing this season.

This charming autumn ensemble shows us the new use of 'Fumikashu' 'Jumee'. The skirt width is achieved by means of wide pleats and the coat is trimmed with summer ermine. The frilly blouse is of yellow Georgette crepe.

PARIS, Oct. 19.

NEVER, since the last great war, has there been such a distinct change in the mode shown for the fall and winter of 1929-30. Youth, slenderness and sophistication are the leading characteristics of this mode. If you have none of these qualities, you must simulate them, and the new gowns are designed with that end in view.

The waistline, after years of wandering like a weary river, has finally reached its natural haven and gives a new proportion to gowns that is the most outstanding feature of the many important changes. Skirts appear longer whether they really are dropped a bit or not, for the shorter bodice gives them a greater length. The waist is marked in nearly all the new models, either by a narrow belt at the natural line or by a subtle fitting occasioned by vertical inverted pleats.

In other words, the new gowns mould the figure closely to a point just above the knee where a discreet but distinct flare accents the line. This silhouette, when properly fitted and carried, gives a new and startling effect which is difficult to describe in words. For how can one describe a work of art in words? You can not picture the color, the texture, the line of a statue, picture, vase or rock in words. Photographs are as much better, and sketches give but a poor idea. One must really see these objects d'art in order to appreciate them. But in my poor way, I shall endeavor to tell you as well as I can more about the changes in the new mode.

EVENING gowns, as usual, lead the advance. This season you will find that they fit the figure more snugly than before, are much longer and give an effect of grace, slenderness and an air of increased femininity.

It is important, this feeling for greater femininity, elegance and luxury in the mode. Lines delineate rather than hide the figure. Rich and sumptuous materials are used, and soft, strange tones of the old colors are blended subtly to achieve an effect of distinction and wealth.

In "Les d'Argent," for example, we have a soft, heavy satin in a shade just off the white, but still not cream or beige. Its splashing bow across the front is richly embroidered with diamonds, as is the bolero attached to the back décolletage, and that, too, is a feature scarcely ever omitted from the new models because it helps to give a lovely straight line from shoulder to bottom of hem, which adds to the height and grace of a woman. The tight-fitting bodice reveals the lines of the figure in front, while the full, softly draped skirt gives that touch of femininity so necessary this season.

Similar yet different is "Tanager," developed in a brilliant shade of orange red—not quite one or the other—in satin with its surprise line across the front, its drapery held in place by a large ornament of red and white brilliants, its uneven hemline, which trails on the floor on one side and is very short on the other.

The Wandering Waistline Is Back to Normal Once More and the New Gowns Mould Figure to a Point Above Knees

By JEAN CHARLES WORTH
Famous French Dressmaker.

As well, its bolero back and its smart combination as well as a sophisticated one, and for the evening there is nothing more chic if it is done well. An sophistication, as I have told you, is one of the leading characteristics of the new mode. Keep that in mind when you make your final choice.

Velvet, transparent, panne, and occasionally a heavier silk velvet, is used extensively for the evening this season. There are shown many white velvet gowns, which set off the sun-tan that has been the height of every woman's ambition to achieve. Black also offers an interesting contrast to the dark and even to the fading skins.

There are the new laines, faconne velvets and brocades in delightfully rich colors which form a number of the new evening gowns and wraps.

TWEEDS are, of course, of primary interest in the mode for the daytime and here again we see many changes. In the first place the tweeds used this season are softer in texture, lighter in weight, or coarser in thread than those used hitherto. We have used a lightweight tweed for frocks, a heavier tweed of harmonious color and weave for the coat, often lining this coat with the tweed of the frock.

Broadcloth is also extensively used for the more formal afternoon costumes. The ensemble illustrated on this page in gray wool with its form-fitting frock, bordered all around with a wide and rather full band of white ermine. Black and white is always a

OTHER costumes in galleas have hats of the same material which in case you don't know, is unborn caracul. It is very soft, and makes very smart hats.

There is a new indestructible tulle, heavy in weave and small in pattern, which I have used a great deal this season. It has many advantages, since it is light in weight, drapes well, and has a delicate quality which bespeaks femininity. It has made some charming new pullovers which I have added to my sports suits in fumikashu or tweed; it forms more formal afternoon blouses when made over a contrasting lining and colored prettily with a soft flowing line, and I have used it in toto for afternoon frocks and also for evening gowns.

One ensemble which has had a tremendous success was a frock of this new tulle, brown, made over a vra green crêpe de chine slip with a draped collar which crosses in front to form a scarf. The coat is made of green broadcloth lined with brown silk and having a large collar extending the full length of the coat in summer ermine, which

Feeling that hats must match the costumes more closely I have designed this season, for the first time in my life, a dozen hats to match certain street costumes and shown these with my models. For the model just described I made a close-fitting black velvet turban which is slightly draped and has is of the same shade as the tulle and lining.

Though this is a full length coat, the newer coats are either hip-length or three-quarters, for here again we have a line that makes the skirt appear longer and changes the proportion of the frock.

Needless Pain!

People are often too patient with pain. Suffering when there is no need to get up. Shopping with a head that throbs. Working though they ache all over.

And Bayer Aspirin would bring immediate relief!

The best time to take Bayer Aspirin is the moment you first feel the pain. Why postpone relief until the pain has reached its height? Why hesitate to take anything so harmless?

Read the proven directions for checking colds, easing a sore throat, relieving headaches and the pains of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

You can always count on its quick comfort. But if pain is at frequent recurrence see a doctor as to its cause.

7,000 TO "BIG FOUR" THIS YEAR

Officer of Southern Association Tells Senators Those Donating Got "Educational" Service.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The state's lobby investigating committee today got from J. A. Arnold, chief manager of the Southern Association and of the American Taxpayers' League, interesting information regarding the work of a lucrative money-collecting outfit, which brought in more than $200,000 in the year ending last Sept. 30.

From information dug up by its investigating staff, the committee learned that 42 per cent of the collections went to the "big four," the go-getters, headed by Arnold.

Estimated further that 55 per cent of the collections went to the "big four" and their assistant collectors in various parts of the United States. In the South the money was raised for the Southern Association and in the North for the "educational" work of the Taxpayers' League.

Arnold asserted that most of the $200,000 received by the "big four" was used by them for organizing purposes. They got more money, he maintained, only for respective salaries.

As on Arnold's previous appearance on the stand, the committee indicated its disbelief in Arnold's testimony. It was fired a parting shot at the end of his testimony. Arnold admitted that he was the sole agent.

The name of Frank W. Mondell,
Republican leader of the House of Representatives, who once his return to private life has set up a profitable law business in Washington, was brought up in the hearing for the first time.

Mondell got $500 from the Southern Tariff Association and Taxpayers' League. Part of this money he used for his appearance before the United States Tariff Commission to urge a higher tariff on peanuts. Blaine professed inability to tell from Arnold's testimony whether Mondell was an agent on peanuts or a peanut agent.

Senator Blaine brought out that an investigation by the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1918 disclosed Arnold as a collector of money from railroads, which, according to Blaine, was used against the passage of the Adamson eight-hour-day law. Blaine admitted that he and Mrs. Ida Darden over a period of years collected $125,000. Mrs.
Darden is still associated with Arnold as a collector of funds.

Gets $500 a Month
Another fact which Blaine withheld is that Mrs. Darden's brother, John Darden, who draws $400 a month from the Southern Tariff Association, is still associated with Arnold as a collector of funds.
